La Follette Plans Cal. Ballot Fight

SEEK VOTE PROVISION IN STATE

May Circulate Petitions to Put Independent Ticket at Polls Here

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN OBSTACLES OVERCOME

Issue In 'Wonderland' May Be Carried to Supreme Court, Is Word

(By United Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, July 23.—Technical obstacles that for a time threatened to block a national campaign for election of the La Follette-Wheeler ticket, have virtually been overcome. Managers of the Independent campaign today took steps to insure voters in every state an opportunity to cast their ballots for the Republican Independent leader and his Democratic Independent running mate in November. In California, for example, where there is no provision in the law for independent presidential electors, the law does provide that the voters shall have free opportunity to express themselves. Taking advantage of that provision, the La Follette managers intend to have petitions circulated for placing the independent ticket on the California ballots. If these are rejected, they intend to carry their fight to the supreme court of the state, where they are confident of winning.

West Virginia O. K. For the time it appeared that the independent ticket would have difficulty in getting on the ballots in West Virginia, but that has been cleared up by an opinion of the state's attorney. Henry L. Eckhorn, attorney general of Wisconsin and one of the La Follette managers, left for West Virginia to make certain there would be no difficulty. Because of La Follette's desire to make a nationwide appeal, a committee, headed by Donald Richberg of Chicago, has been at work for weeks on the technical details of placing the ticket on the ballots of every state and not merely in the La Follette strongholds in the Northwest. Richberg was with the Roosevelt Bull Moose campaign in 1912 and has worked out a campaign scheme which the La Follette leaders believe will prove far more advantageous to the Independent ticket than that followed by Roosevelt.

Back Progressives. In order to catch the ballots of straight ticket voters, Roosevelt placed a full ticket from constable to president—in the field, wherever he could. This, the La Follette managers say, proved to be a handicap, as much time was spent in ironing out petty factional rows over all the country. While the Independent ticket for president and vice president stands alone, the campaign managers and the candidates will endorse candidates for congress with progressive records, irrespective of party affiliations.

Woman Killed; Three Taken on Liquor Charges

SALINAS, Cal., July 23.—Miss Genevieve Donovan of San Francisco, was fatally injured shortly before daybreak today when the automobile in which she was riding skidded and overturned on the San Juan grade, north of here. The girl was pinned under the wrecked vehicle. Charles M. Hall, driver of the car, was uninjured. Passengers on a passing stage freed the pair, but the girl died before she reached a hospital. Police arrested Hall and O. Dingman and Edith Wigson, who were following in a second car, on charges of transporting liquor. Seventeen barley sacks filled with bottles of Scotch whiskey and a case of champagne were seized. POSIES FOR SHOULDERS. LONDON, July 23.—The wearing of flowers on shoulders, both with day and evening dresses, is the newest fashion among the women of London. Real, waxed or feather flowers are used for this purpose.

Woman's Grief With Her Car Is Advertised

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Motorists who don't like the machines they find themselves driving may profit from the experience of Mrs. Carrie F. Sepulveda, who is alleged to be driving about the city with the following sign on the back of her car. "Another record. From Dec. 6, 1923 to July 12, 1924, one axle shaft, 16 wrist pins, 30 piston rings, bearings taken up four times and motor reground in 12,000 miles at a total cost of $247—and we still have motor troubles." The firm which sold Mrs. Sepulveda the car has filed suit against her for $50,000 libel and demanded she remove the displeasing announcement.

FEAR CLASH OF FEUDISTS AT VERDICT

Dynamiting Death Case Factions Throng Courtroom Bringing Own Stools; End Near.

SANTA BARBARA, July 23.—Los Olivos feudists crowded into the county courthouse today confident that a verdict is near in the J. J. Maguire dynamite murder case. Carrying stools upon which to sit in the crowded courtroom they came, village folk, friends or foes of Taylor Downs, W. H. Downs and W. F. Crawford, the Gaunt defendants in the trial. Bitter hatreds rankling within the opposing factions interested in the outcome of the case have been expressed in several violent quarrels and fist fights on the courthouse grounds. Arguments by attorneys before the jury have seemed to fan the feeling of animosity until leaders of the two sides have expressed a fear of open clashes and possible bloodshed. There was a probability the case would go to the jury by 5 p. m.

YES MEANS NO IN STANTON'S ELECTION

Voters of Stanton, incorporated to prevent Anaheim from locating a sewer farm there some years ago, were perplexed today at the outcome of the election yesterday called for the expressed purpose of bringing about the reincorporation of the city. The ballots read "For reincorporation, yes;" "Against reincorporation, no;"—which according to lawyers consulted in the matter made it impossible for the voter to register a choice in the matter. There were 167 "yes" votes and 45 "no" votes, and according to the interpretation placed upon the result by legal lights the total vote "doesn't mean anything at all." Until Horace Head, Stanton's city attorney, returns from his vacation, the voters will have to remain in "status quo" and that question, it was said, is likely to give rise to some nice arguments. When Head returns it is expected that a new election will be called.

GIRLS FLAY CHARGE OF UNGAINLY SHOES

BOSTON, July 23.—Somebody's wrong! Recently a New England shoe manufacturer announced to New England in particular and the world in general that the feet of Boston women daily were growing fatter and bigger. Of course, he didn't use those words exactly, for Bostonians do not favor language of that sort, but that was the trend of his statement. The shoe constructor's views were broadcast far and wide, through newspapers and over the radio. In a short time women of the Hub city were criticized by paragoners and vaudeville humorists for their "big feet." But now the girls of Boston are organizing a club to refute the statement. They are determined to prove that it's all wrong, and that the pedal extremities of Boston's fair sex are as shapely and trim, possibly more so, than those of the maids of California.

EDITOR CASE SLATED FOR HIGH COURT

Sheriff Refuses Governor's Order to Release Man Held For Contempt

SANTA FE, N. M., July 23.—The fate of Carl C. Magee, yesterday sentenced to from three to six months in the county jail at East Las Vegas for contempt of court, must now be decided in the supreme court, Governor Hinkle ruled today. The governor, as had been expected, issued a pardon for Magee and sent Adjutant General Skipwith of the national guard to free the editor of the State Tribune of Albuquerque. He had done the same thing in four previous convictions and sentences of the editor on contempt of court charges. Sheriff Balks. When Skipwith presented his order for release of Magee to Sheriff Delgado the sheriff refused to honor it, declaring the governor had no power to pardon a man convicted and sentenced for direct contempt. Adjutant General Skipwith requested permission to call the national guards to free Magee, but Governor Hinkle indicated this action be taken. The governor said the case must now go to the supreme court to be threshed out, but indicated he will arrange for release of Magee on bond pending higher court action. Attorneys and close friends of Magee mingled with a large crowd of indignant supporters of the editor who had surrounded the jail last night and urged them to disperse without carrying out their threatened attempt to liberate him by force. Guards Placed. After the crowd had been quietly removed from the jail, twenty guards were brought up to prevent success of an anticipated recurrence of the attempt to set him free. Every comfort possible was sent Magee in his cell. He has been furnished meals, flowers, reading material and everything he could desire, by friends on the outside.

EDITOR CASE SLATED FOR HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Making their greatest drive in anticipation of an expected drouth, bootleggers now are smuggling more than 1,000,000 cases of liquor into the United States every month, according to figures made public today by officials of the coast guard service. The seriousness of this figure of illicit liquor importations is evidenced by the fact that only 200,000 cases on an average were smuggled into the country during the spring season, it was pointed out.

$170,000 ROAD BUILDING IS PROJECTED

Formation of three new road improvement districts in the county, involving an aggregate of seven miles of paving at an estimated cost of $170,000, was the goal today of proceedings begun by the board of supervisors late yesterday.

Hearings were scheduled in connection with proposals to form district No. 31, covering five miles of concrete paving on West Seventeenth street, between Santa Ana and Westminster, and district No. 25, covering one mile of asphalt concrete on Ball road, between Euclid avenue and the city limits of Stanton. District 31 will come up for hearing August 10 at 11 a. m., it was ordered, district 25 being set for September 2 at 11 a. m.

Plans and specifications were approved for proposed district No. 29, covering half a mile of asphalt concrete on Central avenue, west of La Habra, extending between La Mirada and the Los Angeles county line, near Santa Fe Springs; also half a mile of asphalt concrete on Hacienda drive, near La Habra, extending between the state highway and the Hacienda Country club.

The estimated cost of district 31, which will form a link in the "Arrow highway" between Santa Ana and Long Beach is $170,000, it was stated today from the office of J. L. McBride, county superintendent of highways. The paving will be eighteen feet wide, nine inches thick at the edges and seven inches in the center.

Estimates for district 25 place the expected cost at $20,000. The paving plans call for a width of eighteen feet and a depth of six inches.

BERLIN LOAN DEADLOCKS ALLIES

American, British Bankers In Dispute With French Are Still at Odds

LONDON, July 23.—The allied conference attempting to reach an agreement on German reparations held its first plenary session this afternoon without reaching a conclusion of the vexatious questions of guarantees for the proposed $200,000,000 loan to the German reich.

The plenary session started at 3 p. m. and did not end until 5:20. There was no indication that harmony between the divergent French and Anglo-American viewpoints is near.

The British and American bankers hold that the German loan cannot be considered a safe investment as long as Germany is menaced by new French encroachments, such as Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, while France considers the loan as secondary to guarantees for her own national protection.

The situation still was admittedly critical, but delegates continued to do their utmost to harmonize the divergent French and Anglo-American viewpoints, hoping for a lasting decision instead of a precarious compromise.

Ambassador Kellogg took a prominent part in deliberations of the deadlocked committee No. 1 across the North Pacific to Chicago harbor, on the island of Attu, via Petropavlovsk and Nikolai islands.

In simplest terms, the last existing deadlock which is holding up proceedings is due to the conflict of interests between the French and the international bankers.

France is Barrier. Premier Herriot is afraid to go too far in making concessions for fear of the attacks of ex-Premier Poincare at home. The bankers cannot go back on what they consider necessary guarantees without endangering the proposed $200,000,000 loan to Germany.

The French want a lien on sanctions, with France assured of something from Germany. No matter what happens, the bankers insist upon adequate guarantees for the loan and do not want Germany to be too hastily declared in default.

The principal argument, therefore, has been over who shall say whether Germany is in default. There has been no clash of personalities thus far, a hopeful sign, although the allied chiefs are beginning to show signs of the strain.

Seek Wife's Word In Mann Act Case

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Word from Gunnison, Colo., where W. T. Rascoria, alias Jay Kelly, is alleged to have married six years ago, was awaited today by Federal Judge Bledsoe before sentencing the Mann act. He pleaded guilty, but said he believed he had been divorced by the Colorado wife.

Rascoria admitted having brought Mildred Young from Salt Lake city to San Bernardino, where, he said, he expected to marry her. This plan, he said, was frustrated when she met him, carrying a child, and admitted she was already married. So he came to Los Angeles and married another woman.

Companion Says Flashlight Powder to Blame; Auto Windshield Torn Off

(By United Press Leased Wire) LOS ANGELES, July 23.—With the shattered body of John Thomen, 38, of South Main street, on a slab in the morgue as the result of a mysterious explosion at Vernon and Long Beach avenues early today, detectives questioned D. De Grotelle, the dead man's companion, to learn what he was carrying in his suit case which exploded when an automobile struck him.

Thomen's body was blown apart. The mangled body was rushed to the Receiving hospital, but died en route. De Grotelle was injured slightly, but will recover. Mrs. Marjorie Watts of Tweedy Road, was driving the machine which hit Thomen, setting off the explosive contained in the suit case he was carrying.

The two men had jumped from a local street car and darted across the road to catch a Long Beach-bound interurban, when they ran in front of Mrs. Watts' machine.

Although spectators said the motorist was driving slowly, the comparatively slight impact of the automobile striking the suit case and hurling it to the street was sufficient to detonate the powerful explosive within.

De Grotelle said Thomen was a photographer for whom he was working. The suit case contained flashlight powder, the survivor stated, but police declare it alone could never have caused the terrific explosion that occurred.

Police took finger prints of the dead man and will search the records to see if the identification bureau can furnish information of all train and automobile passengers entering this state from California and preventing shipment of personal baggage across the state line will be raised Saturday morning, Governor Hunt ordered in a proclamation issued today.

$30,000,000 TO BESTEEL RATE GAIN, CLAIM

(By United Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, July 23.—The United States Steel corporation does not consider the decision of the federal trade commission, ordering the corporation and its subsidiaries to abandon the "Pittsburgh-plus" price system as finally disposing of the case, Judge Elbert Gary, chairman, said in an interview here this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—A $30,000,000 annual saving in the cost of steel to farmers in eleven western states is promised by the federal trade commission in a sweeping decision ordering the United States Steel corporation to abandon the "Pittsburgh-plus" system of fixing the price of steel.

The system, which the decision of the federal trade commission outlawed, is that by which the steel corporation and each of its subsidiary plants fixes prices for steel outside the Pittsburgh district.

The price formula is: The base price at Pittsburgh, plus a sum equaling what the freight charge from that city would be. This meant that wherever a steel purchase was made the buyer would have to pay the price at Pittsburgh, plus freight rates from Pittsburgh, even if the product were delivered from a point nearer the purchaser.

Liner Collision Death Toll Four

NEW YORK, July 23.—With the death list in the collision of the liner Boston and the oil tanker Swift Arrow officially fixed at four, and only three persons accounted for as seriously injured, a federal investigation was begun today by steamship inspectors to fix responsibility for the crash which occurred at midnight Monday off Point Judith, R. I. Officials of the Eastern Steamship company blamed the collision on the Swift Arrow, saying that the tanker should have passed under the Boston's stern.

Crowe announced that the state would prove that Loeb and Leopold registered at a downtown hotel under assumed names—a plan intended to hide their identity and aid their escape. He said the prosecution would show how the young murderers rented an automobile from the Rent-A-Car company—the automobile in which Robert Franks was kidnapped and slain.

Crowe described how Leopold and Loeb carried the boy's body to a culvert near the same train station and then drove back to the Leopold home, where they burned the boy's clothes. The prosecutor told of Leopold's stern.

MOTHER'S EVIDENCE SOBBED

Prosecutor In Reiterating Murder Incidents Issues Demand For Death

DEFENSE ATTORNEY TALKS FIVE MINUTES

Loeb and Leopold Evince Little Interest at Dramatic Times

CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, Chicago, July 23.—Holding back tears that came to her eyes, Mrs. Jacob Franks, mother of the 14-year-old school boy who was murdered by Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, took the witness stand before Chief Justice John R. Caverly today and told of her last glimpse of her boy.

Dressed entirely in black, save for the white gloves on her trembling, twitching hands, Mrs. Franks said that she last saw Robert on the morning of Wednesday, May 21.

"As he left for school I watched him go down the street—that was the last time I saw him until they showed me his lifeless body," Mrs. Franks said.

The stricken mother was led into court by an assistant state's attorney. She arose from a sick bed where she has been confined ever since the death of her son, to come to court.

Slayers' Look Down. During the testimony of Mrs. Franks the two confessed slayers looked down, occasionally stealing a glance at the witness.

A dramatic plea for hanging was made today by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe as he concluded a bitter arraignment of Leopold and Loeb.

Crowe, speaking with angry passion, described the killing as one of the most atrocious crimes in the history of Chicago, and in the name of the people and the state demanded a sentence of death.

Attorney Clarence Darrow for the defense sprang to his feet as Crowe concluded and took issue with the characterization of the killing as "atrocious."

The two attorneys started a sharp wrangle and were halted by Chief Justice Caverly, who ordered Darrow to make a plain statement and for Crowe to "keep the peace."

Leopold and Loeb, squirming under the fire of Crowe's charges, regained their composure as Darrow made a brief outline of the defense case. The case, he said, each other as Jacob Franks, father of their victim, took the stand. Franks, keeping his eyes from the slayers of his son, testified perfunctorily, identifying articles of apparel worn by Robert.

Identifies Photo. Speaking in a low voice and showing little emotion, Franks identified a photograph of his son. The ransom letter, demanding $10,000, sent by Loeb and Leopold, was presented to Franks. He identified it as the one he received. Leopold, for the first time, appeared interested.

This letter, couched in flawless English and perfectly punctuated, was one of his prides. The letter warned Franks that his son might be injured or killed unless he delivered the $10,000 according to instructions. The letter was signed "George Johnson."

Crowe said the letter had been written long before the murderers identified upon their victim. Not undisturbed after Franks was killed did they address the letter to Franks. Crowe said he would show that Leopold and Loeb "practiced" throwing a bundle from a moving Michigan Central train, planning to have the father board the same train and throw off a bundle of $10,000 cash—their ransom for kidnapping young Franks.

Crime Detailed. Crowe announced that the state would prove that Loeb and Leopold registered at a downtown hotel under assumed names—a plan intended to hide their identity and aid their escape. He said the prosecution would show how the young murderers rented an automobile from the Rent-A-Car company—the automobile in which Robert Franks was kidnapped and slain. Crowe described how Leopold and Loeb carried the boy's body to a culvert near the same train station and then drove back to the Leopold home, where they burned the boy's clothes. The prosecutor told of Leopold's stern.

DISCOVER BODY OF DROWNED ANGELENO

The body of Archie Roberts, 27, of 311 East Twenty-sixth avenue, Los Angeles, was found this morning on the beach near the Bolsa Chico Club by the manager of the club. It was reported to the Huntington Beach police today.

Roberts was drowned Sunday afternoon while swimming in the ocean at the foot of Twelfth street in Huntington Beach. While enjoying the surf with his brother, Harry, and Charles Raggi, of Los Angeles, a rip tide carried him beyond the breakers and a strong current bore him to sea more rapidly than his brother could swim.

Officers had been searching the beach night and day since the drowning and Los Angeles friends were said to have patrolled the shore in boats in an effort to find the man's body.

At an inquest conducted at 11 a. m. today, Charles Raggi identified the body. The coroner's jury, after deciding that death resulted from accidental drowning, recommended that the Huntington Beach authorities place signs along the shore warning bathers that the ocean is treacherous from the foot of Ninth street to Twenty-third street, and advising them to swim in the vicinity of the bath house where a life guard is stationed.

Archie Roberts, who was unmarried, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Roberts, and his brother, all residing in Los Angeles. He was employed in the furniture department of a department store there.

Arrangements were made to take the body to the McIntosh and Mager funeral parlors in Los Angeles where services will be held tomorrow.

POORHOUSE MAN RELEASED TO FACE TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Old Henry Mueller—they say he killed another man at the poorhouse in a battle for their 70-year-old sweetheart's love—was sent back to the Relief Home yesterday by Police Judge Jacks.

"It's all right, dad," the Judge said as the white-haired prisoner stood trembling before him, unable in his fright and nervousness to plead in his own behalf. "It's all right; we're going to give you a fair and square trial here. You go back to the Relief Home and wait until we call you again."

Released from Jail
"Henry Mueller, released on his own recognizance, and his case goes over for a week."

There was a full courtroom on hand to hear the old man's story. They had been attracted by the remarkable tale of that battle on the poorhouse stairs last Wednesday noon, when old Henry and 71-year-old Hugh McCloskey, another inmate, fought with canes and fists while gray-haired Ida Hubbell, whom they both loved, looked on in horror.

Manslaughter Charged
McCloskey, according to the story, went plunging down the stairs to die the next morning of pneumonia superinduced by the shock of the struggle. And later that day the police came and arrested Mueller, placing on him the blame for his rival's death. He is formally charged with manslaughter.

The courtroom was crowded yesterday. Mueller may have friends among the aging men and women at the poorhouse, but there was none of them in court when his case was called.

Judge Jacks looked about while Mueller tottered out of the steel-barred dock where other prisoners waited their turn at the bar of justice. Before the bench Mueller could only stand and stare; he could not say a word. And so, to give time for the bringing in of witnesses, Judge Jacks let the old man go back to his poorhouse haven rather than keep him in prison.

throwing the chisel from the automobile, where it was found later. He related incidents when the two boys took their victim's shoes and belt and buried them in the ground in the country. He told of how the boys destroyed the typewriter on which the ransom letter was written, throwing it into a lagoon in Jackson park.

Leopold watched Crowe closely. He seemed greatly interested in the details of the crime he had so carefully planned. As Crowe narrated the details, tears Leopold sat nearby, his face, beside him was Foreman Leopold, older brother of the slayer, Jacob Leob, uncle of Dickie, and Allen, his older brother, sat side by side near the Leopolds.

Darrow made a brief but stirring statement, asking the court for clemency for the defendants.

"Your honor, it would be without precedent if these boys, after pleading guilty, were to be sentenced to hard," Darrow said. Teetering back and forth, clutching his suspenders, Darrow challenged Crowe in his declaration that the murder of Franks was atrocious. He argued that the boy was killed without pain and although the defense does not deny their guilt, it does object to the "ruthless appeal to the base emotions of the public through such a needlessly vitriolic address."

Darrow spoke only five minutes and when he finished, the state called its first witness, Edwin Grescham, uncle of the slain boy. Grescham gave merely perfunctory testimony, telling of his trip to the morgue in identifying the body of Robert, Jacob Franks, father of the slain youth, stooped and bent by the sorrow that has come upon him, was the state's second witness.

FIANCEE TO STAND BY KILLING SUSPECT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—"Right or wrong, my lover."

In these words pretty Lulu Jorgensen of Oakland avows her devotion to Jack Baker, alias Earl Williams, held in a Red Bluff cell—a devotion unshaken by the knowledge that the man she was to marry kept secret from her a career of banditry and is now facing the gallows for murder.

Miss Jorgensen is a sister of Mrs. Mabel Frazier, wife of John Frazier, who is held with Baker for the murder of Sam Herman, a forest ranger, at Red Bluff, last week as he tried to halt them in their flight from the scene of a bank robbery.

The two sisters only learned on Wednesday that it was their husband and fiancé, respectively, who were implicated in the sensational crime.

"We were dumbfounded when we recognized their pictures in the newspapers," said Miss Jorgensen. "My sister took the first train to Red Bluff to see her husband when she learned of his trouble. I wish I could be there, too. I want to help Jack. I love him. He was so gentle and kind to me always. I can't believe it all. It doesn't seem like him."

Miss Jorgensen says that she met Baker about nine months ago, and was introduced to him by Frazier, who had been keeping company with her sister Mabel.

"I grew to love him at once, and he loved me, I know," she added. "We became engaged. He was working for a roofing company and seemed very industrious, saving his money for the time when we could get married."

Kenneth Matheson of the well-known Matheson Ready-To-Wear store of Los Angeles entertained a party of twenty-four over the week-end. He reserved an entire court at the Laguna Beach Villa.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Willard and family of Los Angeles are spending two weeks at the Laguna Beach Tent City. They are very enthusiastic about Laguna Beach and anticipate a very pleasant stay.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Kwis and son of Los Angeles are spending a week at the Villa. Mr. Kwis is connected with the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company.

Ella Morits, Marie Ellen, Rosells Sobre and Sylvia Seagist form a party who are making a two-weeks stay at Laguna Beach Tent City.

CANYON TRACTS PARTNERS IN COURT SUIT

Three tracts of land in Silverado canyon, Orange county, were involved today in a suit on file in the superior court here, representing a partnership controversy between R. C. O'Bryan and W. E. Moyer, Los Angeles subdividers.

In suing Moyer, O'Bryan asked the court to dissolve an asserted partnership agreement between them in connection with subdividing the "Davis," "McIntyre" and "Honey" tracts in Silverado canyon, and also asks a restraining order to prevent Moyer from deeding the properties away. Likewise, O'Bryan asks for an accounting of the partnership funds.

Citing provisions of the alleged agreement between them to finance the subdivision and sale of the tracts, O'Bryan charged that Moyer had not fulfilled the agreement and that he had taken steps to deed the entire partnership interests to the "W. E. Moyer company."

Moyer, it was alleged, executed trust deeds on the McIntyre and Honey tracts to R. D. Allison to assure "repayment" of $20,000 which O'Bryan alleged had never been received from Allison.

Attorney Hal L. Clark, Los Angeles, represents O'Bryan in the case.

SAY S. A. QUOTA

OF POWER MAY BE EXCEEDED

"It is evident that the Santa Ana district will go over the quota of kilowatt hours, allotted by the power supervisor, for the month of July," stated W. L. Deimling, district manager for the Southern California Edison company, today.
"The probable plan will be to borrow from the August quota, like we borrowed in June on the July quota."
"The Santa Ana district is using an average of 118,000 kilowatt hours a day and the latest figures
I have, which include the reports up to and including the night of June 22, show that 2,561,815 kilowatt hours have been used so far this month. Our quota for the month is 3,100,000 kilowatt hours.
Deimling stated that conflicting reports were current in the county, regarding the quota and the use of power, and stated he wanted to make it clear that all power used in the district, whether by night or day, was counted against the county's quota.
Reports coming to him, he said, were to the effect that power used at night was not counted against the quota. Deimling stated that he had requested several consumers to operate their pumps at night in order to take some burden from the day load and shift it to the night load, when power was not used as heavily, but that all kilowatt hours used were counted and checked against the county's quota.

News Briefs

Ninety Santa Ana and Orange county boys, who for the past two weeks have been attending the Boy Scout camp, Ro-kili, in the San Bernardino mountains, near Redlands, were to return to their homes here today, the second summer camp coming to a close at this time. Approximately fifty Boy Scouts left here at 4:30 a. m. today to open the third camp, for a two-week period.

James C. Metzgar, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, left last night for Stanford University, where he will attend the summer school for commercial secretaries of California. He will be back Monday of next week. Friday and Saturday the annual convention of California secretaries will be held at Stanford and it is expected that more than 500 will be in attendance. A. L. Oliver, who will succeed Metzgar August 1
as secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber, will attend the convention Friday and Saturday and will return to Santa Ana with Metzgar.

retary, together with James A. Mc-Dill and Tom McKee, leaders of the boys' department of the local Y. M.

to California in charge of a prisoner who is to be put on the witness stand in the trial of a man at Marysville charged with murdering an officer. Hubbard will visit here until the trial at Marysville is over, when he will return to Montana with the prisoner.

at Birch park, Long Beach. "Bring ment.

No meeting of the directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will be held this afternoon.

city, it was decided by President Charles Spicer to defer the meeting. The next meeting will be held at 4 o'clock next Wednesday.

ceived in Santa Ana today. At the

I WILL NOT BE
MERE 'RUBBER STAMP'-BALL

Emphasizing that his attitude toward measures that may come before the legislature will be taken in accordance with the best interests of Orange county rather than in accordance with the wishes of anyone who might wish him to be a rubber stamp, Dr.
C. D. Ball last night addressed a meeting at which steps were taken for the organization of a Ball-
For-Assembly club.

Dr. Ball, present assemblyman, as a candidate for re-election will receive countywide support and will win, declared Dr. R. A. Cushman, who called the meeting, held at the city hall, to order.
Dr. J. M. Burlew was elected chairman and Victor Walker secretary, for the evening, and later were made permanent officers of the club. Vice-presidents and an executive committee are to be nominated by a committee appointed last night. On that committee are Ralph A. Fuller, William Priess, J. J. Zielan, E. B.
Collier and Dr. W. C. DuBois.
The report of the committee will be heard at a meeting to be held next Tuesday night.

"I am not a politician," said Dr. Burlew, "but I am very glad of the opportunity to do a citizen's part in carrying on the campaign of a citizen so thoroughly interested in and representative of the interests of this county as is Dr. Ball."

"My platform can be expressed in a very few words," said Dr.
Ball, when called on for a discussion of what he considers the issues involved in the contest for assemblyman. "That platform is, I pledge myself under all circumstances to work for the interests of Orange county, and, in case of controversy, to listen first of all to the people of Orange county."

Dr. Ball said that the most vital question before the people of Orange county today is the question of water. He believes that the state should do everything in its power to help this county, along with other counties, to get water from the Colorado river.

"I am a strong believer in economy in public business," said Dr. Ball. "However, I do not believe in a false economy that sacrifices efficiency and humanitarian interests for the sake of saving a few dollars."

Dr. Ball said that as a member of the conservation committee of the last assembly he got into close touch with the conservation and irrigation problems of the state.

The purpose of the club organized last night is to carry on a campaign in behalf of Dr. Ball's candidacy, beginning at once.

LEGION BOXCAR
MEN TO STAGE
PARADE HERE

Approximately 200 members of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8
Chevaux from Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties are expected here tonight for a "promenade" to be held at the American Legion home, at which time the organization will prepare for the coming state convention to be held at Santa Cruz August 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Goofs, numbering fifteen or twenty, from the local voiture and the same number from the other two counties are scheduled to participate in a parade to be held in the Santa Ana streets at 8 o'clock tonight, headed by a brass band.

Following the parade, a business meeting of the organization will be held at the Legion home.
According to Joe Plank, secretary for the local voiture, Orange county is prepared for the state convention and will have a strong representation. The Orange county box car will be taken and an effort is being made to increase the membership so that Orange county will have the second largest number of delegates at the convention. At the present time, it was said, this county ranks third in membership.

ELECTION OFFICIALS

Preparations for mailing notices of appointment to 814 election officials who will preside over the judges, inspectors and clerks for service at the primary were made late yesterday by the board of supervisors. Notices will be mailed,

Backs said, within a few days.

Elk Hills Naval Reserve Well in Output Decrease

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—The Elk Hills naval petroleum reserve
No. 1, which has been placed in re-ceivership due to the civil suit of the government against the Doheny interests for cancellation of their leases, produced 6.6 per cent less crude oil in June than in May.

The report, on file today with Federal Judge McCormick, was prepared by Rear Admiral Harry H. Rousseau and J. Campton Anderson, the receivers. It showed an increase of gas production for the same period, 454,553,000 cubic feet in June and 64,657,000 cubic feet in May.

Much of the report is devoted to protecting the reserve against drainage and recommends the drilling of six offset wells.

4000 AT THIRD
BAND CONCERT OF SEASON

Four thousand music lovers of Santa Ana and nearby cities last night listened to Santa Ana's municipal band of fifty pieces in its third open-air concert of the summer season at Birch park. It was the largest crowd of the year, in the opinion of Prof. D.
C. Cianfoni, director of the band, at the Seal Beach hammer burn-
"The Rigoletto" proved to be the most popular selection of the evening, while "The Butterfly" was another favorite.

Ray Miles, lyric tenor, who sang two solos accompanied by Earl E. Cras, was well received by the large crowd and was called back for an encore. Miles sang
"Contentment" and "The Seraglio's Garden."

Even though the crowd was the largest of the season it was the most attentive, said Cianfoni.
There was no noise made in the park by children and Cianfoni said his musicians were able to do their best. Policemen were present but had no trouble keeping the large crowd orderly.
Cianfoni already is preparing for next Tuesday's concert and declares the program will be a varied one and will appeal to lovers of all kinds of music.

ABSOLVE TRUCK
MAN IN FATAL
COLLISION

Charles E. Henning, 40, Ocean Beach cafe owner, died yesterday afternoon in the Santa Ana Valley hospital of internal injuries sustained when the car he was driving collided "head-on" with a truck on the San Diego highway near San Juan Capistrano midnight Monday, according to the verdict rendered today at an inquest conducted at the Winbiger Mission Funeral parlors here by County Coroner
C. D. Brown. The coroner's jury exonerated C. E. Henning, 1060 North Normandie street, Los Angeles, driver of the truck.

In the Henning sedan at the time of the crash were Mr. and Mrs. M.
J. O'Campo, their three children,
Manuel, 3 months old; George, nearly 3 years old, and Rita, 3 years old, who reside at 1008 East Washington avenue, Santa Ana.
Other occupants of the car were Geon Murphy, a local contractor, and Miss Myrtle Lujan, 16, of this city.

Truck Pilot Unhurt
Neither the driver of the truck nor his unidentified companion were injured although Mr. and Mrs.
O'Campo were slightly cut and bruised. The younger child was severely bruised about the head.
Passing autoists brought the accident victims to Santa Ana where Henning and O'Campo were taken to the hospital.

Henning died of a hemorrhage of ruptured liver.
At the inquest Mrs. O'Campo testified that the truck was moving slowly on the proper side of the road and that Henning deliberately turned from the right side of the highway into the approaching machine. The sedan was traveling between 30 and 35 miles an hour, she declared. The passenger car was demolished and the truck was badly damaged.

Plan Funeral
The coroner's jury consisted of
S. A. Sheely, foreman; W. R. Harris, William Jackson, A. K. Waters,
T. S. Weston, J. A. Randall and J.
B. Kintz.
Mrs. Henning, widow of the crash victim, who attended the inquest, announced that the body of her husband would be sent to the Benbough Undertaking parlors in San Diego this afternoon where it will

When Getting A Loan

You should carefully examine the conditions and details.

First: The expense of making the loan. Whether you pay a commission or bonus, in addition to the cost of papers.

Second: The payments should be scheduled so you can easily meet them when due.

Third: The option of paying a part or all of the loan when you have idle money, or when you sell, without excessive penalty.

There are other points which you should investigate and compare before getting your loan.

We welcome comparison with any corporation loaning money.

CUBBON TELLS OF TRIP TO HONOLULU

It's a far cry from ocean travel of 1888 to that of today, in the opinion of John Cubbon, pioneer resident of Santa Ana and retired banker, who has just returned from a three weeks' visit in Hawaii.

In 1888 Cubbon came to California from the Isle of Man. He contrasts that trip with the trip to Honolulu and return on one of the Matson Navigation company's floating palaces.

Fifty-six years ago the accommodations on the City of Paris were anything but comfortable. The trip was fraught with hardships.

Cubbon contrasts it with his trip to Hawaii where the brilliantly lighted ballroom of the steamer was gay with dancers in the evening and the days were spent in playing games on the deck.

Going to Hawaii, Cubbon celebrated his birthday.

"Imagine my surprise," he said "when the steward brought a birthday cake to my table with twelve lighted candles on it. I accused the members of my party of tipping off the steward, but I later learned that it is a custom of the company to make a birthday cake for anyone who happens to be aboard ship on his anniversary. Every member of my party was given a present from the company on my birthday."

Enjoys Trip
Cubbon declared that his trip was the most enjoyable of his life. Two trips abroad and many transcontinental trips that he has made in years past cannot compare with the two weeks he spent aboard ship and the three weeks on the island.

"Conditions in Hawaii are most prosperous," said Cubbon. "While I was in Honolulu the bank statements of all the national banks were published in the papers and I figured that there was $59,000,000 on deposit. The population of Honolulu is about 80,000."

"Buildings are going up everywhere and many new additions are being made to the old structures. The buildings are up-to-date in every respect. There are beautiful Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. buildings. The schools are beautiful and compare most favorably with those in California. No expense is spared in constructing schools. We attended the graduation exercises at the normal school and a native Hawaiian girl was valedictorian."

"The crops are marvelous. Never have I seen anything to compare with the pineapple and sugar cane crops. We drove through one plantation of thirty miles and on both sides of the road for the entire distance was sugar cane in wonderfully healthy condition."

2200 Work in Cannery

"One of the most interesting sights was the pineapple cannery. Here alone are employed 2200 workers. In connection with the cannery is a large hospital. A playground with an attendant who takes care of the children of the women while they work. The children are given the best of care and at no time need the mother worry about her child. A huge dining room which will accommodate 1500 diners at one time is operated at noon. Here a lunch may be had for 10 cents or a better one for 15 cents. Every worker has an individual locker."

"There seems to be no unemployment in Honolulu. It is an industrious city and only the tourists loaf about the streets. Japanese and Chinese are hard workers and they become Americanized more quickly in Hawaii than they do in the United States. I believe it is because they mingle more freely with the natives. No labor trouble is had with any class but the Filipinos."

Honolulu Pretty Place

"Honolulu is one of the prettiest places I have ever seen. We were there at just the right time. All the flowers were in bloom and the trees were a mass of flowers. The streets are always clean and no matter how humble a house is the yard is one of rare beauty."

"The climate is wonderful. At no time was it excessively hot and the nights were the most marvelous I have known anywhere."

"While the trip was wonderful and I enjoyed every minute of the five weeks I was gone, naturally I am glad to get back home again. This yard of mine needs attention."

And Cubbon concluded the interview by arming himself with a pair of clippers and attacking a hedge.

Farmer Elevators Will Be Studied

A study of the operation of farmer elevators throughout the mid-west grain-growing states is being made by the United States Department of Agriculture and the University of Minnesota in an effort to bring out the methods found to have produced success and those which may have been responsible for failure. There are more than 5,000 such elevators in the grain-growing states.

HIGHWAY CHIEF TRAVELS NEW COAST ROAD

ORANGE, July 23.—Visiting Orange and Orange county yesterday, Harvey M. Toy, chairman of the state highway commission made a tour of inspection over the new coast highway from Seal Beach to Huntington Beach, declaring that he was well pleased with the project. In addition to the coast route, the commissioner viewed other state highway construction in this county.

Toy, a leading San Francisco business man, discussed the problems of financing which the commission is facing, stating that progress in the highway construction program will naturally have to be retarded until additional funds are made available.

Chairman Toy spoke in high terms of the good work accomplished by N. T. Edwards, highway commissioner from this district.

Chairman Toy and Commissioner N. T. Edwards are today making a trip of inspection over some of the Los Angeles county roads with members of the Los Angeles county board of supervisors.

Funeral arrangements are being made by the Angus McAnulty undertaking parlors where the remains are now resting.

U. S. Reclamation Status Is Bared

Less than 2 per cent of the total land area of the arid and semi-arid sections of the United States is now irrigated, yet reclamation has reached the stage where future progress can be made only through the construction of extensive storage works or the use of underground waters made available by pumping, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

The drab people in "Babbitt," as Mary Alden, who plays Mrs. Babbitt, puts it, all have the souls of singing madrigals, until the inner life, suppressed, crushed, denied, aches. The tragedy is a mental one, yet terribly intense in its simple background of dining room, real estate office and Tanis' drawing room. Many a battle scene has stirred you less.

Riverside Nuptials Come As Surprise To Friends

Conveyed yesterday evening in a telephone message to the Robert Andersons at 812 South Van Ness street, was the news of the very quiet little wedding of Mr. Anderson's sister, Miss Stella Anderson, and Edward J. Franzen which occurred earlier in the afternoon at Riverside.

It was with much ingenuity that Mr. Franzen and his fiancée eluded the friendly attentions of their relatives and motored to the Mission Inn city for the nuptials regarding the strictest secrecy. There, with no attendants, the wedding ceremony was performed by the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. James Lewis Gillies.

Miss Anderson's choice for a bridal costume was a smart ensemble suit of forest green, the coat with Hudson seal collar. Her coming hat was black with other dress accessories harmonizing.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Franzen continued on their way, but failed to acquaint their friends here with their plans other than by saying they were to include an extended honeymoon trip, some of it to be spent in the mountains and some at the sea.

Their return to Santa Ana is therefore an event of an indefinite date in the future, when they will occupy the ranch home of the groom. The engagement days of Miss Anderson were brightened by a succession of pre-nuptial courtesies extended by her many friends all of whom are anticipating the return of the happy pair. One of the most enjoyable of the social events in her honor was the large luncheon at which her sister, Mrs. Charles V. Doty entertained quite recently.

A shower and evening party with which her Sunday school class of the First M. E. church was honoring her, was scheduled for Thursday night, but has been postponed on account of the march stolen on all their friends, by the bride and groom.

Cool Dishes

Cherry Pudding

Although you can't make these cherry puddings quite as "good as a cat can wink its eye" you may like them even better than the famous cherry pie.

It seems to be impossible to make cherry pudding from canned fruit with the same deliciousness that is found in the fresh fruit.

Such desserts are hearty and should be used as the main part of luncheon.

One cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 3-4 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup stoned cherries, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar. Add yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour, salt, cream of tartar and soda. Add whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Put cherries in baking dish and sprinkle with two tablespoons sugar mixed with one tablespoon flour. Cover and heat to the boiling point. Spread batter over fruit and bake 45 minutes in a hot oven. Serve with sugar and cream.

Total calories, 2437. Protein, 199; fat, 449; carbohydrates, 1789. Iron, .0063 gram.

Raspberry Shrub
Eight quarts red raspberries, cider vinegar, sugar.

Wash and pick over berries. Put in earthenware jars or half fill one big jar. Pour over vinegar to cover berries. Cover jars with clean cloths and let stand over night.

In the morning strain through two thicknesses of cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure juice. For every cup of juice add a cup of sugar.

Put in preserving jar and bring to boiling point. Boil 10 minutes. Fill sterilized bottles full and seal. Store in dry, cool, dark place.

Raspberry Nectar
Four quarts raspberries, 2 quarts vinegar, sugar.

Put berries in a crock and pour vinegar over. Cover with a clean cloth and put in a cool place. Let stand 10 days or two weeks. Strain and measure.

To every pint of juice add three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar. Bring to the boiling point and simmer gently 20 minutes. Skim as scum rises.

Let cool and pour into sterilized bottles. Seal and store in a dark, cool place. Dilute with ice water when used.

A Daily Menu

Breakfast — Raspberries, crisp broiled bacon, fried eggs, creamed potatoes, crisp toast, coffee.

Luncheon — Shrimp salad, bran bread, sandwiches, baked cherry pudding, clam, iced tea.

Dinner — Cream broth with whipped cream, stuffed halibut steaks, creamed potatoes, buttered new beets, pineapple-cream cheese and nut salad, blackberries, with thin cream, sponge cake, iced coffee.

Dinner Guests Enjoy Evening of Dancing In Hales Home

Resounding to gaiety was the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hales, 1721 North Broadway, last night when it was thrown open to a pleasant little group of guests who dined and danced in enjoyment of the hospitality of their hosts.

Massed pink asters sounded the color note of the evening and lent their rosy charm to the dining table where covers were placed for fourteen, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hales, hosts, Mrs. Hales's mother, Mrs. W. W. Harness, Miss Sarah Harness, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hales of Huntington Park, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hales and Mr. and Mrs. Carter Mulally of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hales, Howard Harness and Paul Harness.

Social chat and music followed the enjoyable dinner, and when dancing was introduced, it completed a very happy evening for hosts and guests alike.

Massachusetts Guests Arrive For Visit With Relatives

Mr. and Mrs. James Bramley of 706 Cypress street and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Phillips of 413 Cypress street are welcoming the arrival of North Adams, Mass., guests in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Crawley, who, reaching Santa Ana a week ago, will remain for an extended visit here and in other Southern California cities.

Mrs. Crawley is a sister of Mr. Bramley while the relationship between Mrs. Bramley and Mr. Phillips (sister and brother) makes the latter's welcome to the east-owners a most friendly one. The newcomers have already accepted Santa Ana as quite the most progressive and delightful little city visited on their trans-continental trip and are enthusiastic about the charms of the entire community and of California's summer climate which they had expected to be far more torrid than the reality.

Mr. Crawley is owner of a large printing shop in North Adams and is enjoying his vacation from strenuous duties connected with the business.

Many pleasant things are being planned for their California visit although Mr. Phillips' participation in week-end events will be curtailed since, beginning next Sunday, he will be enroute to the White Temple, Anaheim, during the remainder of July and August. In September he will resume his place with the First Congregational choir of this city after having experienced a vacation from church choir duties since the first of May and for the first time in thirty-three years.

Wealthy, Aged Kin To Visit Suspect

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—An aged man with a bankroll of $100,000 and prepared to battle for his grandson's freedom, will visit Thomas R. ("Red") Martin, suspected robber, in his cell today.

His grandfather, F. M. Lanham, is a wealthy Texas rancher, it was stated. According to Detective Lieutenant George Mayer, who has handled the case against Martin, alleged member of the "filthy five" bandit gang that has committed scores of robberies here in the last six months. The prisoner has $200,000 in securities in his own name.

Martin was arrested two weeks ago after a pistol duel with Officer Potter in which both were slightly wounded.

Delay Hanging as Appeal Postponed

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Isaac Wolfgang, the "milk bottle" murderer, twice sentenced to be hanged for slaying a local policeman, will not go to the gallows at San Quentin tomorrow morning.

The state supreme court, in session here, postponed consideration of Wolfgang's appeal until August 12, in San Francisco. The appeal is based on an asserted error in court proceedings here.

Wolfgang, an itinerant sailor, shot and killed an officer while resisting arrest on a charge of stealing bottles of milk from the doorway of a grocery store.

WEDLOCK VOID FOR GIRL IN SHOOTING

SAN JOSE, July 23.—Irene Grant, who won notoriety in April of 1922, when, as a girl of 14, she shot and seriously wounded Harold Galloway, 16, of Mountain View, during a lovers' quarrel was granted a decree by Judge J. R. Welch, annulling her marriage last August to Robert T. Bleibler. Evidence disclosed that she was but 16 at the time of her marriage, and did not have the consent of her parents to wed. Galloway, the victim of the bullet from the revolver she carried at the time of the quarrel, recovered after spending several months in a hospital. The girl claimed the weapon was accidentally discharged.

Pretty Celebration Of Birthday at Colonial Club

Miss Isabel Lopez, who is celebrating her twenty-second birthday anniversary today, was honor guest at a delightful dinner last evening at the Colonial club in honor of the event.

The table was centered with a cake iced in pink and topped with the required number of candles in dainty green cups, placed upon a mirror wreathed with pink Cecil Brunner roses and ferns. The candles were extinguished with the usual wishing custom. The cake was the gift of Miss Rosa Gustlin. Other pretty gifts were received, including a wonderful prayer book with silver-filled mother-of-pearl cover, from the famous Maximilian collection in Mexico. The Business and Professional Women's club sent a dear little vase, containing one perfect rosebud with ferns and a note of well wishes. Other appreciated gifts marked the day.

Covers were laid at the prettily decorated table for Mrs. Olive Lopez, mother of the honoree, and hostess of the occasion, Miss Rosa Gustlin, Miss Rosina Stern and Jack Garfield of Balboa Palisades.

Miss Lopez is leaving tomorrow for Los Angeles to spend the day with a friend, and will then go to Cedarapines Park, for a stay of six weeks among the pines for the benefit of her health.

Gift Shower Planned For Bride-elect By Queen Esthers

Seeming on the surface to differ in no respect from the usual combined business and social meeting of the Queen Esther Circle of the First M. E. church, the gathering Monday night at the home of Mrs. F. P. Jayne on East Washington street, yielded quite a surprise to one of the members; Miss Stella Anderson whose engagement to Edward J. Franzen has been of much interest to her many friends. Games afforded entertainment to the merry group of girls while music added its charm to the evening. A refreshment hour Mrs. Jayne served a dainty little repast. While it was being enjoyed a tea wagon was wheeled into place before Miss Anderson who realized that she was guest of honor when she found an assortment of lovely gifts ready for her acceptance.

Distinctive Air Given Tube Frock

This frock of beige flat crepe achieves an air of distinction by its unique insert of open-work embroidery outlined with a row of ball buttons that attach by means of loops. The dress itself, you will notice, is a perfectly straight tube affair with a Jenny neck and very short sleeves. Detachable, but a part of the costume is the wide and very lengthy scarf of self-material edged with the ball buttons. It is worn over a slip of the same color.

NOGALES, Ariz., July 23.—Death cheated the law, it became known here today, when a discrepancy of $8865 in the accounts of City Treasurer Frank E. Cole was announced by the bonding company auditing his books. Cole died Saturday from natural causes, 24 hours after the audit was commenced.

Possible further shortage in Cole's accounts was admitted by the auditors, who have already found the sum announced in the investigation.

The auditor, who has been in office six years, was found on the floor of the bathroom of his residence, gasping for breath. Heart failure, now believed to have been brought on by the strain under which he was laboring, was given as the cause of his death. His body was shipped to San Antonio, Texas, for burial.

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Harry J. Dunlap, notorious "badge bandit" suspect, today occupied a cell in the county jail, pending his arraignment tomorrow morning on what is perhaps the most extensive array of charges ever filed against one man in local courts.

Today, district attorney's deputies brought before him some of the victims of Dunlap's alleged outrages—persons whom he is said to have robbed, women he is accused of attacking, and others upon whom his asserted crimes of various sorts have been perpetrated.

Three or more persons the "badge bandit" is accused of murdering. Miss Ethel Todd of Pasadena, who saw her sweetheart, William Jacobson, shot down one night last winter as he sought to prevent her from attack, was to visit Dunlap's cell.

Catalina Trip Proves Very Pleasant For Family Group

Representative of four generations was a happy little group of Santa Anas who have returned from a Catalina outing over the week end. Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, her daughter, Mrs. Theo. A. Winkler with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Winkler and the latter's small daughter, the blonde little Elizabeth, all of whom enjoyed the Friday-to-Sunday stay at the famous island, to the utmost.

Probably the enjoyment of each was heightened by the fact that despite their thirty-seven years' residence in Orange county, it was the first trip of "Mother" Mills to Catalina, and her ability to extract the keenest of pleasure from every experience, made the trip one of delight.

Arriving at the island, they had the added pleasure of greeting a number of Santa Ana friends, among them, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Zerman who were vacationing there. Upon returning to Santa Ana Sunday night, they found a pleasant surprise awaiting them, for Mr. Winkler's nephew, Harvey Cake with Mrs. Cake, had arrived from Arizona for a brief visit, and a quite recently wedded daughter, Mrs. Merkle Johnston with Mr. Johnston, all of Los Angeles, E. J. Parker of Tustin, and John Smith of Sierra Madre, came to the island with Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Smith will also be among the guests while from this city will be Mr. Parker's niece, Mrs. Walter Clark with Mr. Clark, their little daughter and Mrs. Clark's father, Erastus Costleman.

Mrs. Cyril Parker's mother and brother and his wife, Mrs. Price, and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Price, also her sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma Price and small son Billie of Los Angeles will all be present in addition to many other relatives.

Music and dancing are being planned as entertaining features to add to the interesting reminiscences which always follow such a happy family reunion. A delectable supper will also have a prominent part in the evening's festivities.

Crossing Continent To Give Zest to Wedding Trip

Their many friends here were keenly interested in the quiet nuptials of Maynard E. Race and Miss Frances Harpole which immediately preceded the departure of a family group for the former Race home at Battle Creek, Michigan.

Mr. Race and his bride will enjoy their honeymoon in a motor trip nearly across the continent, according to friends of the family who bade them a reluctant farewell early this week. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Race who for the past two years have resided at 521 East Walnut street, Miss Glennis Race, Miss R. Glee Race and the happy newlyweds.

Miss Glee Race has been one of the courteous salesforce at the Rankin store and continued there until Saturday of last week. Both E. C. Race and his son, Maynard, have been in the painting business here.

A Super-Clay

Brought me beauty and perennial youth

By Edna Wallace Hopper
I look on a glorious career as a famous beauty. Then for 35 years a stage star. And now, at a grandmother's age, a beauty still playing a beauty's part.

I owe all that to several factors, but the greatest is a new type clay. Now I have arranged with Edna Wallace Hopper druggists and Photo 1923 toilet counters to supply it to every woman. I want it to bring to others what it brought to me—multiplied beauty, decades of added youth.

My White Youth Clay
Old clays were crude and muddy. Mine is white, refined and dainty. Old types had one clay—mine has two. There are eleven ingredients embodied in mine, to bring the maximum results.

I owe this clay to men who have given me many years of scientific study. It is a super-clay, amazing in its quick and lasting benefits. I have seen many plain girls become beauties with one application. I have seen older women seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No girl can look her best without it, no woman keep her youth. Look at France—where girls are all beauties and women all young. That is largely due to clay.

I have no great interest in urging women to use my White Youth Clay. But I do urge them to use some clay. I have found that mine brings multiplied results, but better the old types than none.

The magical effects
My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs of mares it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy after-glow which so amazes and delights. Husbands tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It wards off every sign of age.

I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

VARIED TOPICS DISCUSSED BY ROTARIANS

Forest fire protection, the betterment of the English language, and the work of the United States Chamber of Commerce—these were included in a variety of subjects discussed before the Rotary club at its weekly luncheon held at noon yesterday at St. Ann's Inn.

The principal address was made by Paul Clagstone, of San Francisco, manager of the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Clagstone reviewed the objects of the organization he represents, and urged that Santa Ana be well represented at the western division meeting to be held in Los Angeles next November. He said that the organization does its principal work at Washington, D. C., where it represents the business men of the country.

Stands For Initiative.
"The United States Chamber of Commerce," he said, "stands out against the all-too-popular movement of passing everything to the federal government. It does not believe in taking away private initiative. It believes in the development of individual activities rather than trying to have the government do things that ought to be done privately."

He said that at the last session the organization was responsible for the defeat of the Fitzgerald bill which aimed to compel all employees in the District of Columbia to be insured in a government company.

R. R. Raymond, of the Santa Ana fire department, set forth clearly the situation that exists in California in relation to forest fires. He emphasized the responsibility of every individual in relation to fire protection, not only in forests but in cities.

Urges Care in Speaking.
L. G. Swales, speaking of the need of more care in the use of the English language, said that he believed that Canadians and English are more careful in their use of grammar and less prone to fall into the use of slang than are the Americans. He said that he believed that young people today should be impressed with the importance of using good English, for good English is used by many people as a measure of one's capabilities and training.

U. N. Oliver, lumber dealer of Amarillo, Tex., formerly in the lumber business in Santa Ana, addressed the club briefly. He is vice president of the Rotary club at Amarillo. He and his family are spending two weeks at Balboa.

J. C. Metzgar presided at yesterday's meeting.

Purchase Price Cut Is Demanded

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 23.—Unless he gets part of the purchase price paid for him by the Washington club of the American league, Floyd (Pete) Scott, outfielder of the Kansas City blues, is going back to his home at Stockton, Cal., tonight, "through" with baseball. Scott made this statement here last night, after George Muehleback, owner of the Blues, refused to share any of the sum received by Muehleback with Scott.

Scott thinks it's a "dirty deal," and is said to be ready to quit baseball rather than go to the Senators.

BIG AMUSEMENT PLAN TICKETS SALE NEARS

Plans for the sale of 2000 tickets for the ten joint community entertainments which will be staged in Santa Ana next winter probably will be completed at a meeting to be held at Ketter's cafe here at 6:30 o'clock next Wednesday evening.

Robert Shafer, publicity chairman, announced today that between 150 and 200 persons are expected to attend the meeting. The personnel of the four community organizations have been notified of the meeting. The organizations are the Community Players, Orange County Choral union, Santa Ana Municipal band and the Symphony orchestra.

The plan to be submitted calls for all four organizations to combine on the one ticket plan. It is proposed to sell 2000 tickets at $6 each. These tickets would be good for each of the ten proposed entertainments. Tickets will be sold throughout the community and at the beaches.

The meeting next Wednesday is expected to name a week early in September which will be known as "drive week," when a concerted campaign will be launched to sell the 2000 tickets. D. Eymann Hurt has been named chairman of the campaign committee and will report his tentative plans to the meeting next Wednesday.

Under the present program an entertainment will be given once in every three weeks during the winter months. The four organizations will put on two shows each and it is believed that two will be staged by the combined clubs.

SEWER WAY RIGHT TO BE DISCUSSED

Members of city council of four cities will meet Friday evening at Anaheim to discuss the joint outfall sewer right-of-way. City trustees from Orange, Fullerton, Anaheim and Santa Ana will meet at 7:30 o'clock.

Members of the Santa Ana board of trustees plan to attend the meeting in a body and will meet at the city hall here at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

City Attorney Z. B. West Jr. and Attorney Clyde Bishop also will attend.

Chambers Agree To Attend Rites

SEAL BEACH, July 23.—Sixteen letters of acceptance have been received from Chambers of Commerce who admit that in their cities they have a hammer they would be willing to see burn at the Seal Beach habber burning Wednesday night, and that representatives will be sent to carry the tool of dispute to the appointed place at the appointed hour.

Long Beach is sending a hammer in charge of five representative men and a death knell will be sounded for all community knockers.

The procession will form on Main street at 8 p. m., led by Holders' Boys' band and a funeral dirge will no doubt be chanted as the procession proceeds to the scene of the ceremonies on Seal Way. A confetti battle and dance will give expression to the optimistic reaction.

La Habra Butcher To Face Judge on Battery Complaint

FULLERTON, July 23.—The trial of Gus Terwilliger, La Habra butcher, who was arrested last Friday on a charge of disturbing the peace and for assault and battery, was yesterday continued for a week as accused is still confined to his bed with a broken jaw, said to have been sustained in the free-for-all fight which he staged in resisting apprehension. Judge H. E. Hart has put his hearing forward on the calendar for a week on the request of Terwilliger's attorney, Sam Collins.

Terwilliger was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Cagle of Placentia after a stiff tussle and was brought to the city jail here. He was released on putting up $25 bail and after being given emergency treatment was allowed to proceed home.

Fights and Fighters
NEW YORK, July 23.—Rain caused postponement of the Jack Bernstein-Jack Zivic lightweight elimination bout, but fair weather today promised the bout would be held tonight.

The Most Positive Method of Eliminating Scale

You cannot well afford to jeopardize your crop by taking chances with ruinous scale. These dissipators of your time and money investment must be got rid of! The use of R. & H. Hydro-Cy Applicators has simplified fumigation so greatly and so successfully eliminated guesswork that this method is unquestionably the most positive way of eliminating scale and keeping orchards commercially clean.

The use of hydrocyanic acid under the tent necessitates the close consideration of two important factors: 1st, Correct measurement of the liquid; 2nd, proper conversion of the liquid into a uniformly distributed gas or vapor under the tent. The Hydro-Cy vaporizer and the Hydro-Cy Pump (patented and standardized) accomplish both! And having been in successful service for several seasons, under practically every crop condition, are, therefore, worthy of investigation on your part. If you will request our Free Book—or any special information pertaining to scientific fumigation—we shall be glad to give you our expert advice. We are at your service.

VAST SUPPORT BEING GIVEN MINSTREL SHOW SLATED FOR PRESENTATION BY CRIPPLES

Individuals and organizations of this city are aiding in every way possible to make a success of the minstrel show which will be staged in the high school auditorium here Friday evening by the older crippled children of the Los Angeles Orthopaedic Hospital-School.

Orange county has had a close affiliation with the Los Angeles Orthopaedic Hospital-School and its work, through Aid Commissioner W. S. Gregg, Mrs. J. H. Leebrick, superintendent of the social service department, and Idabel Durgan, county nurse.

Sixty-four orthopaedic cases from Orange county, six of which were from Santa Ana, have been treated in the institution. In carrying on this work local officials have been aided by the financial co-operation of the Kiwanis club, Elks and other organizations, as well as individuals.

The Kiwanis club of Santa Ana will act as host all day to the crippled actors, who will arrive Friday morning in cars and ambulances, in time for luncheon and an afternoon rehearsal. Extensive plans are being made to care for the children and their attendants. Through the courtesy of the local pastors and Sunday school superintendents tickets were placed in the hands of Sunday School class leaders and announcements were made of the performance before all religious meetings last Sunday. The Boy Scout organization volunteered to serve as ushers and to distribute the window cards advertising the show.

The Elbell club has volunteered to supply candy which will be sold at the show.

Every penny taken in by the little actors will be used by the Hospital Alumni to aid in lightening the burden of some other crippled child.

Every member of the cast who appears Friday night is a cripple. However, all are said to have unusual talent. They appear on the stage in wheel chairs, on crutches or on stretchers. They dispense a brand of entertainment that has made them famous wherever they have put on their show in either Los Angeles or Orange county.

FEED STOCK ON SCREENINGS. IS ADVICE

There are a dozen reasons why screenings should be separated on the farm and fed to livestock, says the United States department of agriculture. Screenings are an undesirable farm product, consisting principally of weed seeds, cracked and shrunken kernels of grain, chaff, broken stems, and straws, dirt and other foreign material and often constitute 10 to 20 per cent of the grain as it comes from the thresher. They should not, however, be regarded as a waste but should be turned to valuable account by feeding them to livestock.

When screenings are sold with the grain they are classed as dockage, and the grain farmer actually gives them away because his grain is docked according to the proportion of screenings it contains. This loss to the grain farmer amounts to huge figures when large sections are considered. In 1923, for example, nearly 12,000,000 bushels of screenings were produced, threshed, and marketed as dockage in the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, and Montana. The sum of $675,000 was paid by the farmers of those states for threshing their screenings or dockage and $800,000 was paid to the railroads for hauling it to the terminal markets. Millions of dollars' worth of good feed was thus given away. The grain farmer was the loser.

The average screenings are more nearly equal to oats in composition than any other common feed. Heavy screenings from which the chaffy material has been removed are nearly equal to corn, wheat or barley in the percentages of the various nutrients. More than 3,500,000 lambs could have been fed with the wheat screenings that were wasted in the four spring wheat states in 1923, forming the entire grain ration. The resulting increase in weight of the lambs, at 12 cents per pound, would have brought $8,500,000 to the farmers. The spring-wheat farmers who cleaned their market wheat on the farm in 1923 gained over 5 cents per bushel as a result of the cleaning.

When a farmer who grows little or no grain wants to feed screenings, he must pay high prices for them in a ready-mixed feed, or must purchase them of the elevator or mill that has separated them. The grain farmer on the other hand, can separate them at the thresher or granary and feed them as a by-product of his farm. He pays no freight or middlemen's commission. By means of a cleaning machine, the screenings can be removed from wheat or rye at a cost of 2 or 3 cents per bushel. A number of these cleaning machines will be in operation in the spring-wheat states this year as a result of the work of the United States department of agriculture in showing the feeding value of this product for all kinds of livestock and the practicability and economy of separating it and feeding it on the farm.

Out of every 200 of the population of Great Britain it is estimated that there is one person mentally defective.

In a field on her farm near High Point, Md., Mrs. Frank Ford found an English coin bearing date 1774 in good condition.

ANOTHER WARNING—INSURANCE BUYERS

The people of Santa Ana and Orange county should buy their Life Insurance of the local agents. Most of the large companies have good reliable men who live here and have lived here for years, who own their own homes or rent and spend their money here and boost the county. Several are members of the Chamber of Commerce and contribute to help out any worthy cause. Several men are working in the county now who call themselves "special agents" or from "Home Office," who are in reality what are known to local men as strong-arm "men." These same "special agents" are trying to dissuade old policy holders and get them to cash in their policies and take out Term-assessment or other insurance, thereby causing them a great sacrifice.

Remember this and don't give checks or notes to strangers and get stung. Don't cash in old policies and be sorry afterwards.

Tustin Man Will Help Stage L. A. Poultry Exhibit

Will S. Hatch, poultry rancher of Tustin, has been appointed assistant superintendent of the poultry show to be held at the Los Angeles County fair, Los Angeles, October 12 to 18, according to word received here today. Hatch's appointment was received from Paul E. Kennedy, superintendent of the Los Angeles county fair, poultry department.

Hatch for several years has taken prize poultry to the Los Angeles show and is one of the Orange county poultry men who has received high grades on chickens exhibited.

Hatch today asked that all poultry men of the county who expect to have entries in the exhibit this year, rush their arrangements and to communicate with him regarding making entries. He stated that he would have several entries in the show, himself.

ANNULMENT TO END ROMANCE OF WOODS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The little "mountain bride" of Charles Obeare, wealthy Kansas City youth, who was wooed and won last March while her husband was seeking adventure as a lumberjack near Dunsuir, in Northern California will not contest the suit for annulment of the marriage, which was filed here three months ago by Obeare's mother, Mrs. Conway Holmes, wife of a millionaire Kansas City banker.

This was indicated recently when Mrs. Obeare's default to the suit was entered in the superior court on motion of Attorney W. Lindley Abbott, representing Mrs. Holmes. Mrs. Obeare, the girl bride had failed to make an answer to the action within the thirty days allowed after service of summons upon her.

Story Of Broken Romance
Back of this brief legal preliminary to the dissolution of the marriage, lies a story of a country girl whose dreams came true for a brief moment of happiness when she met her Prince Charming, who, for a lark, lost himself for a time in the timber camps.

Obeare and Madeline Lucid, daughter of a Dunsuir hotel-keeper, eloped last March, were married at Yreka and came to San Francisco. They furnished and occupied a cottage in Piedmont.

Then Obeare informed his mother, as well known socially in San Francisco as she is prominent in Kansas City, that he was a married man. The honeymoon in the Piedmont cottage soon ended.

Mother-in-Law Here
Hastening here from Kansas City, Mrs. Holmes summoned her daughter-in-law's mother from Dunsuir. As a result of the conference, Mrs. Obeare tearfully went home to Dunsuir with her mother, and Obeare returned to Kansas City with his mother, but not before the latter had caused the suit for annulment based on the fact that Obeare was not of age to be filed.

'FOLLIES' GIRL SEEKS MISSING HUSBAND

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—"Perhaps if he sees my picture in the paper he will remember and come back to me."

This is a phrase from a plaintive letter received by the Detective Bureau here from the former "Follies" girl, Harriet Manning of Los Angeles, who is in search of her missing husband, O. J. Irby, brother of the late Colonel John S. Irby, former Surveyor of the Port here, who died here recently. Her photograph was inclosed.

He has been off on a spree, so to speak, for several months," she wrote. "The last I heard of him was May 1 last, when he wired me that he was about to board a vessel for Alaska, bound for Coffee Creek, a gold mining camp."

WOMAN'S CRASH SUIT JURY IS DISMISSED

With the jury equally divided, six to six, the trial of a $30,000 damage suit brought by Miss Alta I. Gourgue, of Anaheim, against G. E. Pickering, of Placentia, ended today in a disagreement that left the case undecided.

Judge R. Y. Williams of the superior court, who presided over the trial, dismissed the jury at 2 a. m. today after ten hours of deliberation had proven unavailing.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs were unable to state, they said today, whether a new trial would be asked.

The case occupied two days in Judge Williams' court. Miss La Gourgue pressing for $25,000 actual damages and $5,000 special damages for injuries sustained when a car driven by her father, F. R. LaGourgue, collided with Pickering's machine near Anaheim last December. Her back was broken in the wreck and she sustained other injuries, it was alleged.

A separate damage suit, filed by Miss La Gourgue's father, is now awaiting trial, it is said.

Decision as to responsibility for the wreck, which occurred at the intersection of East and Sycamore streets, Anaheim, depended largely on proof of physical facts, it was said, there being no eye-witnesses to the collision except the principals.

FIVE NEW MEMBERS INITIATED BY ELKS

Initiation of five candidates featured the regular meeting last night of Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, B. P. O. E., in the Elks clubrooms, on North Sycamore street. Those who became members of the order were Vincent Shea, R. F. Yeasle, N. L. Arnold, M. B. Stephens and G. K. Scovel.

Plans were completed for the second summer dance which will be held Monday, August 18 at the Rendezvous, Balboa.

Many of those present arranged to attend initiation ceremonies at Anaheim tonight when officers of the local lodge will put on the work.

Of much interest to the Elks were "Jones' Jolly Jubileers," a group of Santa Ana artists who presented a vaudeville program of novelty music, dancing, solos and readings. Members of the group were the Misses Wanda Prather, Lola Melton and Esther Swearingen and Clinton Myracle, Edwin Jones and E. D. Christenson.

Miss Prather and Miss Melton each gave an interpretative dance while the latter gave a whistling solo and sang in a novelty duet with Edwin Jones. Steel guitar duets and trios were furnished by Myracle, Jones and Christenson. A novelty saw solo by Jones and readings by Miss Swearingen completed the program.

Federal Aid For Roads in Forests

With the signing of the Agricultural appropriation bill by the President, June 5, $6,000,000 was appropriated and $4,000,000 authorized for the construction of forest roads and trails. Of the $6,000,000, $3,500,000 had previously been authorized for the fiscal year 1924. Of the remaining $2,500,000 appropriation, half is forest-highway money which will be spent upon roads of primary importance to the counties and States. The remaining half is known as forest-development money and will be expended on roads the greatest importance of which are for use in the development and protection from fire of the national forests. Of the authorized amount $2,250,000 is forest highway and $1,750,000 forest development.

Township Adopts Standard Breed

A novel method of improving the livestock of Mount Hope Township in the State of Washington is being introduced by the newly organized better-stock association. The plan of the organization as reported to the United States Department of Agriculture by E. D. Metcalf is to limit the farm animals in the township to one breed for each class of livestock.

Belgian horses, Guernsey cows, and Duroc-Jersey swine are the breeds that have been selected.

ZEROLENE

for FORDS
"leaves nothing to be desired"

Fords seldom work harder than they do in the fish business of A. Paladini, Inc., which has offices in San Francisco, Oakland, Monterey, Eureka and Pittsburg. This company writes:

"We have used Zerolene 'F' for Fords in our Ford cars, which you know are operating continuously under the most trying conditions, and find it superior in every respect to any of the numerous oils we have used in our Ford equipment. We are glad to offer this recommendation as we know that Zerolene 'F' for Fords leaves nothing to be desired in Ford lubrication."

Improves Gas Mileage

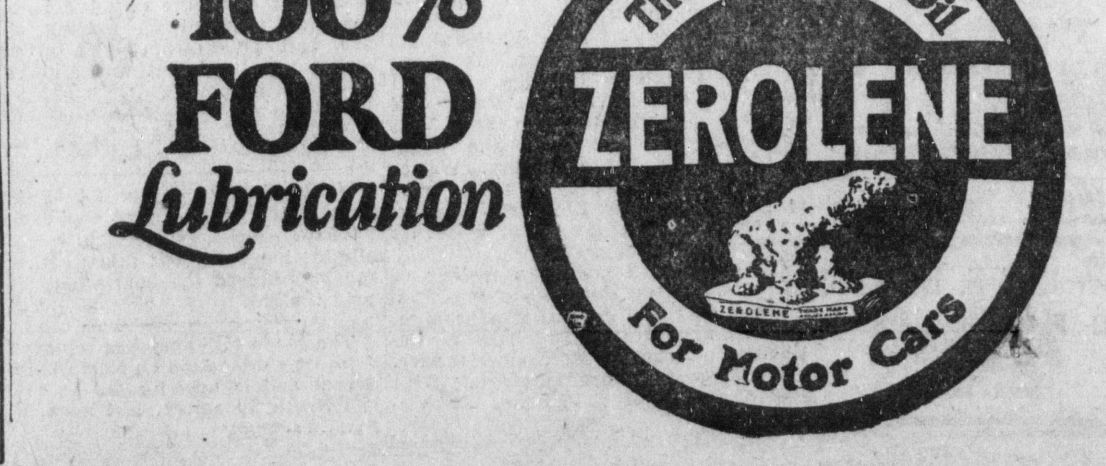

Zerolene "F" for Fords gets to the parts requiring lubrication. That is why Ford owners who drain their crankcases and start out fresh with this new oil find that their gasoline mileage is considerably improved and that the car runs more smoothly and has more power.

Lubricates Better—Costs Less

Incidentally, Zerolene "F" for Fords, which represents a definite advance in Ford lubrication, costs not more but actually less than other special Ford oils on the market.

A Ford is an A-1 transportation investment. Protect your investment by proper lubrication.

SOUTHLAND NUT GROWERS MEET IN SANTA ANA AUGUST 9

Five Field Demonstrations Covering All Problems of Industry Planned

WILL TOUR GROVES

New Dehydration Plant of Fruit Company Will Be Shown to Visitors

Among other things that will be featured at the fourth annual Southern California Walnut Growers' Field day to be held August 9 at Santa Ana, will be five field demonstrations covering practical problems confronted by walnut growers of the Southland.

These field demonstrations will be featured in walnut groves of Santa Ana, Tustin and vicinity.

The caravan of growers will be conducted through the local groves by the farm advisor and members of the walnut growers' department of the Orange county farm bureau.

A new type of dehydration plant will be exhibited at the San Joaquin Fruit company where a new plant is being constructed at the present time. This plant represents the latest word in walnut dehydration and no doubt will be of particular interest to all growers in the south.

Opportunity will be given the growers to see the irrigation and soil moisture experiments which are being conducted by the citrus experiment station.

C. V. Newman, manager of the San Joaquin Fruit company, will explain results from spraying and dusting operations conducted for the control of codling moth and aphids on walnuts. A wire branding demonstration and thinning of old walnut groves will also be featured during the itinerary.

UNDERTAKERS TO MEET LOS ANGELES—The Southern California funeral directors' association will meet in annual convention here next month. One day's session will be held in an outlying cemetery.

CARE OF The EYES

DR. ROY S. HORTON Optometrist

It Is Service That You Buy

The elements and materials of the physical world about you are yours for the taking. They are free. The rocks, the clay, the minerals and the substances of the physical world have little value to you except as they serve a useful purpose. It requires experience, knowledge, skill to select and adapt these elements to human use. Herein lies the secret of value.

You buy an automobile for transportation comfort, service. The raw material in the best auto has little value.

You pay your tailor for garment-comfort, for service. The raw cotton or wool would cost but a few cents.

You pay your dentist for services. The materials he uses cost but a fraction of his charge.

You pay your physician for services. The drugs he leaves with you cost little.

And you pay your optometrist for services. The glasses, without his scientific and skillful adaptation, would be valueless.

Yes, in every case it is the knowledge, science and skill used in the selection and adaptation of the materials to use and helpfulness that constitute values.

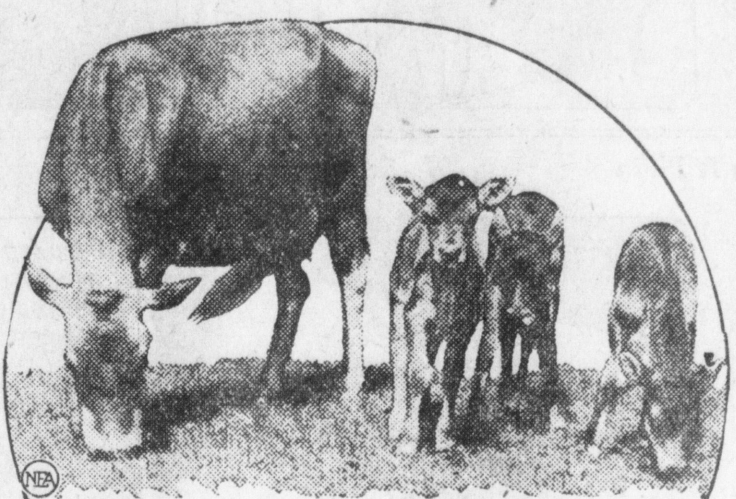

By means of expert knowledge and skill, the optometrist is able to measure the refractive condition of your eyes and to select and adapt mechanical means for the correction of any optical defect that may exist.

This is service. And it is this the optometrist sells you.

Should you buy glasses? No. If you see imperfectly, if you have vision discomfort, if you experience any disturbance or inconvenience due to an error of the refractive condition of your eyes, you need the services of an optometrist.

AIM TO COMBAT BULLETIN SETS DISEASES IN DAIRY HERDS FORTH POWER SOURCE DATA

BY W. M. CORY, (Assistant Farm Advisor)

A very serious yearly toll is exacted from the dairy industry through loss of animals from infectious diseases. Sometimes these may be contracted on the premises or in many cases animals may have been mildly infected when purchased and later have developed disease of a more malignant type.

It was to crystallize a general feeling of needed protection, to the industry, that a meeting of livestock men was called last week at the Hotel Clark, Los Angeles, under the sponsorship of the Southern California Purebred Livestock association. Representatives were present from Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside, Santa Barbara and Los Angeles counties.

Each representative expressed himself as being unanimously in favor of devising means providing for protection from infectious diseases in dairy cattle.

Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry in the United States department of agriculture, commended the livestock men for the stand they had taken. He indicated that the spread of infectious diseases was greater than generally realized. Many times, he said, the apparent trouble was due to a secondary infection brought on by the weakened vitality and lowering of the natural resistance of the animal.

Los Angeles has already taken steps to protect the livestock industry. In order that this protection may be afforded the livestock interests in other counties it is necessary for them to take similar action, or such as they see fit, which will tend to make more complete protection for all.

A committee, with one representative or more, was appointed from each of the counties that had not taken any action, to draw up such regulations as might be deemed fit to submit to the respective boards of supervisors.

COUNTY WALNUT MEN TO FIGHT PECAN FOES

Horticulture Men Discuss Means of Eradicating Pest From South

The discovery of the pecan case-bearer, an insect that defoliate pecan trees, and which is well known in pecan areas in the East, but unseen in Orange county until several weeks ago, has caused walnut growers throughout the Southland to watch more closely, their walnut trees.

A meeting of horticultural commissioners from virtually all of the Southern California counties was held this week in Los Angeles, where the insect was discussed and ways and means of eradicating it in the Southland, disclosed. Carlyle Thorpe, manager of the California Walnut Growers' association, who was present at the meeting, stated that the pest had not attacked walnut trees in Southern California as yet.

Plans for a campaign against the pecan case-bearer were inaugurated. A plan was submitted by Thorpe, calling for the individual counties to pay half the costs of eradication. The walnut growers' association would pay the other half, it was understood.

According to plans submitted, walnut groves and all territory within a radius of one-quarter of a mile of groves, will be sprayed for the insect.

A. A. Brock, Orange county horticultural commissioner, stated today there were no infested trees in Orange county, and that, every precaution would be taken to keep the case-bearer out of Orange county.

"There are few pecan trees in this county," he said, "but the great danger is in the pest attacking walnut trees. Black walnut trees throughout the eastern part of the country have been known to be infested with the pecan case-bearer."

Brock stated there was every reason to believe the same pest would attack English walnut trees.

Wherever the pest is found in the Southland, growers will spray for it, it was announced, using three pounds of arsenic lead to fifty gallons of water. This spray is for summer use only.

ANNOUNCE FURTHER QUARANTINE LIFTS

The foot and mouth disease quarantine which has been on the county for months has been entirely lifted, except on premises, directly affected, according to a proclamation received here today by A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, from Governor Friend W. Richardson.

The entire Southeast of Orange county, extending from the Westminster road to the sea, was the last restricted area to be released, as one infection at a dairy in this section was found several months ago. These premises are the only ones in the county that still are to abide by quarantine rules, according to the proclamation.

During the entire epidemic, there was only one case of foot and mouth disease discovered in Orange county, according to Brock.

SAYS NORTHERN FARMERS TALK IRRIGATION

Water Conditions Causing Injury to Crops, Avers Farm Bureau Man

"Water conditions in the northern part of the state are making the farmers up there think seriously of irrigation," stated Alfred M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, today, following his return from Napa county where he has spent the past two weeks on his annual vacation.

"The fruit trees in many of the valleys show injury from lack of moisture and I noticed cattle had been turned into some of the bean fields. These things will have a tendency to increase the cash returns for the small crops produced, but the production will be so small that many farmers are bound to suffer."

"Some sugar prunes were picked in Napa county a week ago, more than a month earlier than usual. The prunes were not fully matured and the early ripening was undoubtedly due to lack of water. Apricots in Santa Clara valley are in most cases unusually small, although some fairly large-sized Tiltons are offered. Much barley has been left uncut and is being pastured."

"The conditions north of the Tehachapi, in the mountain valleys, are much worse than in the south, owing to the lack of irrigation systems, and this serious shortage has caused both Napa and Lake counties to take steps to utilize some of their many storage reservoir sites."

"I did not do any fishing while away from Orange county. The water was so low in my favorite streams that the fish were all ready baked by the sun, before they were caught, so there was no need to catch them, and then put them on the stove."

SPECIALIST TO CONDUCT FARM FIELD MEETS

Specimens of roots damaged by over-irrigation will be featured at each of the irrigation field meetings scheduled for this week, according to announcement from the farm advisor's office today.

Professor J. B. Brown, irrigation specialist, of the University of California college of agriculture, will assist in conducting the demonstrations and will point out simple methods of measuring the amount of water used by the grower in his orchard. The farm advisor has arranged a series of exhibits showing roots in different states of deterioration due to the misuse of irrigation water, illustrated talks will be featured by both Brown and the farm advisor.

The following schedule of meetings has been arranged:

July 23, 2 p. m., Tustin, place of H. L. Bascom, Holt avenue.

July 24, 10 a. m., Anaheim, place of T. F. Shea, Placentia avenue, corner Santa Ana street.

BUREAU NOTES

BUSINESS MEETINGS

The summer citrus institute, held at Pasadena last week, and which was attended by a large number of Orange county delegates, was one of the best in recent years, in the opinion of several who have returned here. More than 1000 delegates from all parts of Southern California were present.

More than fifty delegates attended the quarterly meeting of the Southern California Purebred Livestock association, held at the Hotel Clark, Los Angeles, last week. Dr. J. H. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry in the United States, and stated that the most progress had been made through the establishment of accredited herds and free areas.

A joint meeting of the farm advisors and the horticultural commissioners of the Southern California counties was held during the meeting of the summer institute at Pasadena, at which time, ways and means of eradicating pests of various kinds were discussed. A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, is president of an organization made up of farm advisors and horticultural commissioners, and H. E. Wahlberg, local farm advisor, is secretary.

Prof. J. H. Quayle, entomologist from the citrus experiment station at Riverside was in the county last week inspecting groves said to be infested with codling moth.

Walnut aphid is present in several groves, according to H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, who stated that it is not anticipated the infestation will be large enough to justify artificial control measures.

The citrus experiment station, under the direction of Harry Smith, entomologist, is propagating a number of foreign scale parasites which have been brought into the county from various points in South Africa.

Sub-tropical and pomology classes from the University of California were in the city this past week, for the purpose of reviewing places of interest in Orange county, and to study various ways and means of coping with pests.

Specimens of roots damaged by over-irrigation will be featured at each of the irrigation field meetings scheduled for this week, according to announcement from the farm advisor's office today.

W. B. Hooper, walnut specialist from the University of California college of agriculture, with Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg, is completing plans for the annual meeting of the Southern California Walnut Growers' association, which will be held in Santa Ana August 9.

The monthly meeting of the Tustin farm center will be held at the Orange county park, in the form of a picnic, according to information learned today. The date for the picnic has not been announced.

Fruit on fertilizer plots at the C. C. Chapman ranch, near Fullerton, is being harvested this week and records kept of the growth.

Steps are being taken by several property owners in the Garden Grove drainage district, to withdraw from the general district, to establish a smaller district for trying out the so-called vertical drainage.

A light application of fertilizer on young alfalfa, to prevent the crusting of the top layer of the soil has proved a success in getting a good stand of alfalfa, according to reports made from the office of the farm bureau.

Fertilizer test plots have been established at the place of J. A. Knapp, at Garden Grove to determine the best kind of fertilizer to be used on chile fields in that neighborhood.

A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, has returned here after a two weeks' vacation in Napa county, where he made a survey of the work done by the farm bureau in that county.

One of the features of the meeting in the farm bureau offices of students of the pomology classes from the University of California, at Berkeley this week, was a lecture on irrigation, and bark diseases, by H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor.

Specimens of roots damaged by over-irrigation will be featured at each of the irrigation field meetings scheduled for this week, according to announcement from the farm advisor's office today.

Professor J. B. Brown, irrigation specialist, of the University of California college of agriculture, will assist in conducting the demonstrations and will point out simple methods of measuring the amount of water used by the grower in his orchard. The farm advisor has arranged a series of exhibits showing roots in different states of deterioration due to the misuse of irrigation water, illustrated talks will be featured by both Brown and the farm advisor.

The following schedule of meetings has been arranged:

July 23, 2 p. m., Tustin, place of H. L. Bascom, Holt avenue.

July 24, 10 a. m., Anaheim, place of T. F. Shea, Placentia avenue, corner Santa Ana street.

July 24, 2 p. m., Garden Grove, place of J. O. Arkley, one mile north, one mile west of Garden Grove.

July 25, 10 a. m., Fullerton, C. C. Chapman ranch headquarters.

July 25, 2 p. m., Santa Ana canyon, place of L. P. Hitchcock, Santa Ana canyon road at corner of Richfield bridge road, 2 miles east of Olive.

The foot and mouth disease quarantine which has been on the county for months has been entirely lifted, except on premises, directly affected, according to a proclamation received here today by A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, from Governor Friend W. Richardson.

The entire Southeast of Orange county, extending from the Westminster road to the sea, was the last restricted area to be released, as one infection at a dairy in this section was found several months ago. These premises are the only ones in the county that still are to abide by quarantine rules, according to the proclamation.

During the entire epidemic, there was only one case of foot and mouth disease discovered in Orange county, according to Brock.

SAYS SHORTAGE OF POWER MAY TEACH USERS BIG LESSON IN SAVING

All Employing Irrigation Water Should Practice Conservatism, View

URGES SOIL AUGUR USE

County Farm Advisor Says Tests Show Abundance of Moisture Here

By H. E. WAHLBERG (Orange County Farm Advisor)

The present emergency requiring power conservation in view of the shortage of water power in our watersheds will now behoove every user of irrigation water to practice conservative methods of water application in the field and grove.

The use of the soil auger always has been advisable and important in the guidance of intelligent irrigation practice but is particularly desirable during the present season because of the enforced conservation of power not only among industrials but agricultural users also.

To a certain extent the writer feels that the present shortage of power for delivering irrigation water will be a boon to many growers because it automatically requires the grower to pay closer attention to the actual needs for soil moisture in this grove.

The general cut of 25 per cent will in some cases work a hardship on the annual shallow-rooted crops on sandy soils, but in the majority of groves in the county the 25 per cent cut under the consumption of an equal period of last year will have very little ill effect if any and in most cases the reduction will have resulted in a benefit to most groves.

There are a few growers in the county who through close observation used approximately the proper amount of water during the past year or two and in such cases wilting may result from the reduced irrigation, but in the majority of cases where 25 to 50 per cent more water has been used than is actually needed by the trees the emergency reduction will work no hardship whatsoever.

The farm bureau power conservation committee has authority to investigate the actual needs for moisture in the field and grove and to rate power according to the needs found.

Moisture Found O. K.

There has been a tendency towards hysteria in certain sections because of the power shortage but upon investigation in most cases examination has revealed an abundance of moisture. Where cases of actual moisture shortage have been found showing apparent damage to the crops involved the committee has been enabled to appropriate sufficient power to take care of the critical needs of such cases.

As the fall and period of desert winds approaches there will be cause for having plenty of moisture in the soil in order that the trees may have access to same when demand is made upon them for moisture. It will be to the growers' advantage, particularly those located in sections exposed to the dry winds, to conserve now in order to have a reserve at hand when the time comes for supplying the needed moisture just previous to the wind period. Now is the time to save and conserve.

MISS ALIAS

BY DOUGLAS GRANT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sallie Peck, a Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Brennan, with whom Sallie lives. A French maid calls her a "blow" on the head. When she regains consciousness, she finds herself in a strange surroundings. A French maid calls her a "blow" on the head. When she regains consciousness, she finds herself in a strange surroundings. A French maid calls her a "blow" on the head. When she regains consciousness, she finds herself in a strange surroundings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Alone, Sallie smiled grimly to herself as she poured the soup and coffee down the hand-basin in the bathroom, secreted the largest portion of solid food and messaged the rest about with her fork. She was in a negligee brushing her hair when Therese came once more and noticed the quick gleam which came into the woman's eyes as she darted a glance at the tray.

"Here is the traveling costume, Mees. You will put on the robe now! There are many hours yet, but it is well to be prepared."

"Thanks," Sallie observed laconically. "You needn't help me; I can manage alone."

"Very well, Mees," Therese picked up the tray. "I was to say that all the necessary luggage would be in the car. I wish you a safe journey, Mees!"

The slight hesitation betrayed that Therese was not as hardened as she seemed and Sallie forced herself to reply nonchalantly, but when the woman at length disappeared a feeling of panic seized her. Could she depend on Fitch after all? Would he be able to get her safely out of the house with all the odds against him?

Forcing back her futile fears Sallie put on the brown traveling gown which showed signs of previous wear and laid the cape, gloves and toque that had accompanied it upon a chair. She had no means of knowing how soon the drug which she had supposedly taken in her food was expected to affect her, but at ten o'clock she threw herself drowsily across her bed conscious that prying eyes might be upon her through the keyhole.

Eleven o'clock came and then midnight and Sallie was beginning to despair when she heard cat-like footsteps outside the door, muffled on the carpet and then a soft knock which turned her faint and sick for a moment.

Springing up she pushed the robe hastily down upon her head, flung the cape about her and turned to the door just as it opened noiselessly and Fitch appeared.

"Good girl, Bess!" Come to now and not a sound! Had to give that fellow a nasty crack and when they find him they'll let 'em loose!"

Mechanically Sallie seized the pistol Fitch thrust into her hand, gave one glance at the figure sprawled face downward upon the floor about the head of which in the dull glow of the hall lamp a dark stain was already spreading, and then fled after her rescuer down the stairs.

It was evident that the struggle in the hall had not been heard for the house was as decorously still as though it were not planned to carry an unconscious girl out within the hour to horrors as yet unknown. They reached the lower floor and the tradesmen's entrance unchecked and Sallie felt a little sob well up in her throat as the cool night air beat upon her face.

Still at Fitch's heels she ran across the court, through a door in a wall, down an alley and over another wall by means of small ladders already placed there. A second passage-way, an open door of iron grill, and to her amazement the girl found herself upon a side street, broad and deserted save for themselves. Her companion gripped her arm and hurried her on relentlessly when Sallie, panting, would have cried out the truth to him but as they turned the corner and the headlights of a car approached slowly up the street, came into view she managed to wrench herself free.

"Fitch, listen, you must listen to your chief! Let me go and I'll give you this string of pearls! I only let you think I was this 'Diamond Bess' so that you'd help me get away from those terrible people but I'm not!" she sobbed breathlessly. "I don't know anything about her except what I read in the paper. I never saw those diamonds!"

"My Gawd!" He seized her again in a grasp which made her cry out with pain. "Still trying to double-cross, are you? I thought you'd be on the level with a pal as I have, Bess, but you're like all the rest! That was Sloat himself that I croaked outside your door there—croaked, do you hear, and I'll go to the chair for it if I'm caught! They was goin' to take you to a private hospital that doctor has out in the country and do you in! I heard the whole thing and in three days at most the papers would have had the death of Miss Copeland from injuries got at that wreck. Blimey me, I wish I'd let 'em take you!"

"You must—you must believe me!" Sallie wailed. "I'll believe you all right when the chief's through with you!" Fitch responded venomously. "And me gettin' soft on you! Here's the car. Now you come along and come along quiet, or I'll give you a rap on the conk, woman or no, so help me!"

Sallie had forgotten her pistol but now she raised it desperately just as the sedan rolled up to the curb and its lights were extinguished. With a contemptuous laugh Fitch twisted her wrist and the pistol fell to the sidewalk.

"Here, Bill!" He spoke into the open door of the sedan. "It's Tucker's Auto Park, Second and Pine, all right but she's too late to get in."

do us dirt and make a getaway! Toss her in and gag her if she peeps. Wait till I find this gat and we'll be off!"

As the car rolled on Sallie cowered in her corner, realizing the futility of further struggle. Her sense reeled and she felt that consciousness was leaving her but she clenched her hands and bit deeper into her lower lip, fighting with all her strength to keep command of herself. To what sort of awful den were they taking her? What would their fearsome lord do to her when he found out the mistake, if his gang did not hesitate at murder?

A shudder shook her from head to foot and she shrank still further into her corner. Fitch beside her and Bill in front were grimly silent and the stolid, bulky man at the wheel had not even turned his head. It appeared to the terrified girl that they drove for countless miles, turning corners which she could only judge by the lurch and swerve of the car and although she dreaded unspeakably their journey's end the suspense became unbearable.

At last, just as she felt her self-

SALLIE SEIZED THE PISTOL FITCH THROST TOWARD HER.

control slipping from her, the car stopped with a jerk and the fellow called "Bill" opened the door and got out.

"Think she'll give any trouble, Fred?" he asked.

"Come on, Bess, no bluffing now! No, she'll go quiet; she's all in!"

In pitiful obedience Sallie had striven to rise but her knees gave way beneath her and she was only dimly aware that they were half-carrying her up a flight of stone steps. Then a door opened and closed and she felt the warmth of a house and smelled the odor of fragrant tobacco.

A partial strength returned to her, a partial clearing of her brain and she found herself standing alone in a comfortably furnished library facing a shrunken, bald old man who sat hunched over his desk glaring at her with cold, bright blue eyes. Dimly she heard his high, thin voice:

"This girl is not 'Diamond Bess'!"

CHAPTER X

The Third Girl

ON the previous Saturday morning when Trevor and Michael Curtis reached New York the dawn had not yet come but they drove straight to Police Headquarters where Mike, after presenting his credentials, was immediately closeted with the acting head of the Bureau of Missing Persons. From thence within the hour an alarm was sent out all over the city for a certain young lady with black hair who wore a blue serge suit and a blue hat, and carried a large tan traveling bag; she was believed to have arrived by way of tube or ferry about four o'clock on the previous Tuesday afternoon and to have been well supplied with money.

The description was meager, but authentic word went out to the press that a little publicity would not come amiss, with a hint of possible sensational developments, and Mike left the Bureau to find Trevor restlessly pacing the corridor.

"Got that off your chest, old scout?" the latter asked, adding at Mike's nod: "Old thing happened just now. Fellow going along the hall with a sheaf of triple photographs like enlarged passports pasted on cards dropped one and I made some sort of an exclamation, I couldn't help it. He looked at me pretty sharp and I explained that I'd seen the man in the photograph only lately but I couldn't recall where. He went on about his business but I'll be hanged if two seconds later he didn't come back and ask me to step into the Detective Bureau and there a grizzled old boy behind a desk gave me the grilling of my life but I couldn't tell him any more. It seems the man in the photograph goes under the name of Fred Ferrer and he is supposed to be long to the same gang as that woman who's been in the papers so much lately in connection with a big jewel robbery—'Diamond' somebody-or-other, they call her."

"Diamond Bess?" Mike glanced at him quickly. "Did you know, Trevor, that there's a possibility she was on the Gotham Arrow, too? We haven't been able to get any trace of her, though."

"That's a coincidence!" Trevor stared back for a moment. "Wonder where I could have seen that fellow Fred? Well, come on to my room for a shave and a shower and then after breakfast we'll separate for the day, as we arranged. Maybe we'll have news for each other to-night."

Kiwanians Agree To Support Plan For Reforesting

FULLERTON, July 23.—Support to the reforestation and fire prevention program launched by Herber Winder, district governor of Kiwanis, was pledged by members of the Fullerton Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon yesterday afternoon. Local Kiwanians will do their utmost to aid in the timber conservation campaign by observing every precaution themselves and by preaching the same gospel to others.

The Rev. M. E. Bollen and W. T. Boyce, delegates to Kiwanis International convention, gave brief talks outlining measures and policies discussed at the big meet.

Dr. George Dietrich and W. C. Record were other speakers at the gathering.

NEED OF GIANT WAR ON FLIES EMPHASIZED

The importance of concerted, organized effort to get rid of flies on the part of the whole community, not only cities, but suburban and rural neighborhoods as well, cannot be overemphasized, according to the bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture. By the most painstaking care one may prevent all fly breeding on his premises, but it will avail him little if his neighbors are not equally careful. Some sort of co-operation is necessary. One of the first and most important elements in any anti-fly crusade is a vigorous and continued educational campaign. It has been the experience of those who have undertaken such crusades that people generally regard the fly as a somewhat harmless nuisance and that the first work of the campaign was to bring the people to a realization of the dangers from flies and the possibility of getting rid of them.

The anti-fly crusade is a matter of public interest and should be supported by the community as a whole and engineered by the health officers. But health officers can do little toward the necessary work of inspection and elimination without funds, and therefore the support of the campaign must manifest itself in increased appropriations for public-health work. Very often it is lack of funds which prevents the health officers from taking the initiative in the anti-fly crusades, and there must necessarily be much agitation and education before they can profitably take up the work. Here lies a field for the best energy, initiative, and leadership of civic associations, women's clubs, boards of trade, and other community organizations.

NEW COAST AIR MAIL SERVICE PLAN LAUDED

Establishment of air mail service between San Diego and Seattle, now under consideration by the postal authorities in Washington, would mean much to Santa Ana, in the opinion of Postmaster T. E. Stephenson.

A saving of twenty-four hours over the present time between Santa Ana and New York would be made, Stephenson said, and a corresponding saving of time at intermediate points.

At the present time all air mail from Santa Ana is sent by rail to Salt Lake City where it is picked up by flyers. Two days' time is saved by this plan over the old all-rail plan, from here to New York. However, the air mail service does not expedite the dispatch of mails from Santa Ana to some western points. For instance: W. A. Taylor of 7170 South Ross street, formerly a resident of Hastings, Neb., recently sent a letter to his old home via air mail. He said there was no saving in time whatsoever. The postmaster said the saving of time sometimes depends on how soon the mail can be connected out of air line stopping places.

Stephenson said it is possible that the mail planes on the proposed route from San Diego to Seattle may stop here but it is doubtful. However, should this service be established, air mail that now is sent to Salt Lake City would go to Los Angeles. There it would be picked up by the mail planes and taken to San Francisco, transferred to the transcontinental planes and thus an additional twenty-four hours saved over the present schedule of transporting mail from Santa Ana to New York.

Luther K. Dell, traffic manager of the air-mail service of the post office department, is planning a trip to San Diego early next month, dispatches say, for the purpose of looking into the various phases of the problem.

The proposed service would take on and deposit mail at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and Portland and the proposed terminals, it is said.

The Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles and the Community Development association there, anticipating the establishment of the new air mail route, yesterday asked the city council for an appropriation of $10,000 for the construction of a municipal air field at Griffith park.

"Our air mail has to go by rail to Salt Lake," said Stephenson. "While the mail reaches everything on the direct air line eastward sooner than it would if sent by rail, points in some of the states are so far from the line of the air mail that time cannot be saved."

Stephenson said that in general, no time is saved in dispatches from Santa Ana to Idaho, Montana, Utah, Colorado, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma. No time is gained to Memphis, Tenn., and Kansas City, Mo. But little is gained to points in Kansas, Georgia, Missouri, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Schikat got the first fall, but made a bad showing for the remainder of the bout.

The victory gives Zbyszko the fight to meet Ed ("Strangler") Lewis for the world's title here next Tuesday night.

CURB MARKETS AID TO RURAL WOMENFOLK

The success of curb markets in North Carolina in disposing of the rural women's surplus garden, dairy, and poultry products has increased the number of such markets from 9 to 24 during the past year. These markets, which were established with the help of home demonstration agents, have made it possible for farm women to add to their income and obtain comforts not otherwise within their financial reach.

A report received by the United States department of agriculture describes one of these markets at Wilmington, N. C., which was organized by rural women of three counties—Brunswick, New Hanover, and Pender. This market has a bulletin board with prices posted, in view of all buyers. These prices are fixed by a committee composed of a producer, a consumer, and the home and farm extension agent, from one of the counties.

The city officials did their part in preparing the auditorium where the market is held, and the city women co-operate by patronizing the stalls. Sales from the 20 Saturdays on which the market has been open have amounted to $3,874.22.

A decided effort has been made to standardize all products and display them or put them up attractively. The improvement in the quality of the products offered for sale has been one of the encouraging results of the opening of the market. Graded, clean, infertile eggs were found to bring a ready sale at prices almost double what could be obtained in the country districts. Milk-fed chickens attracted customers who were willing to pay extra to get them. The women soon saw, also, that it pays to grade vegetables. The market has helped in the selection of food for the home, has been a medium for the exchange of flower cuttings, and has enabled the farm women to buy and sell purebred poultry among themselves. The women enjoy the social contact with women of other counties afforded by the market.

TOTS' DIET IN TWO COUNTIES IS IMPROVED

Considerable progress has been made, through home demonstration work, in improving the diet of rural children. A typical instance of what is being done in this direction recently reported to the United States department of agriculture is the child feeding work carried on in two California counties—Santa Cruz and Contra Costa.

This work began with the fundamental idea that child feeding must be a part of a general nutrition program, in which all possible co-operating agencies such as county nurses, teachers, parent-teacher organizations, librarians, and others take part, and that the food of the entire farm family is a matter for consideration. The farm mother does not have time to prepare extra or different food for a child; the food on the table for the whole family must be so correctly planned and prepared that the children may have it without detriment.

A number of rural families with children were enrolled as demonstrators during 1922 and 1923. The home demonstration agent gave talks to the mothers on health habits and the diet of children, in which the need for milk, vegetables, and fruit was emphasized. She distributed weight charts and gave demonstrations in the proper preparation of food, organized hot lunch centers in several schools, and with the help of the county nurse, weighed the underweight children once a month. The children themselves were very much interested in their own health and correct food. They made posters at school and wrote compositions on the subject. The right kind of a lunch box to bring from home was shown, and the planting of vegetable gardens was stimulated.

In Santa Cruz county 174 homes co-operated in the child-feeding and hot lunch work. Among the underweight children 59 have reached their normal zone in weight and only 2 have failed to do so. In 7 rural schools 244 children have been supplied a hot noon lunch. Eighteen mothers

Announcing the New Top Drive Pump Head

Preferring a more simplified type of pump head, the new Layne & Bowler TOP DRIVEN built-in type is the latest development. It provides direct connection to a vertical motor and differs from the usual type in that the motor shaft is a continuation of the line shaft. It insures certainty of operation and long life; protection and positive lubrication; fixed, accurate alignment during period of operation, eliminating use of a flexible coupling. One of the most important features is the accessibility. Adjustment of the runners, repair or replacement of the thrust bearings and removal of the packing is easily accomplished and all parts are readily accessible without removal of the motor. The top drive and long floating, yielding power shaft which eliminates the flexible coupling, permit lowering of the motor, thus preventing vibration. This new top drive Layne & Bowler Pump Head embodies many other advantages. We shall be pleased to give you full information regarding this head.

Layne & Bowler Pumps are built in all sizes, belt driven or direct connected, for installation in wells 8 inches in diameter or larger, to produce from 125 to 4500 gallons per minute. Catalog upon request.

WARNING GIVEN BATHERS WHO CAN'T SWIM

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 23.—"Persons entering the surf, who are not expert swimmers and have not had much experience in ocean bathing should enter the ocean near the pier where they will have the full protection of the life guards."

This statement was made here by local police, and life saving officials following the drowning of Archie Roberts near Thirtieth street, Sunday afternoon. Roberts could not swim and presumably became frightened when swept from his feet by the tide.

Two drownings have taken place near Thirtieth street this year, it is pointed out by city officials, while there has not been one life lost within a radius of ten blocks on either side of the pier during the past five or six years. Fifteen people have been saved from the surf by the prompt action of Life Guard Lee during the three years of service as guard on this beach.

All were swimming near the pier and would probably have been drowned had not they been near the life guard.

Lee also stated that an attempt would be made in the near future to secure the posting of signs warning the public of the danger of swimming in unprotected waters.

The addition of due of the regular Red Cross life saving buoy is expected to add considerable to the efficiency of the local life saving department in the near future.

An effort will be made by Lee to secure a bathing suit with the word "Life Guard" in large letters across it, he announced today following the failure of one man to stop at his signal Sunday when he endeavored to catch a ride to the scene of the drowning. Other life guards who are on special duty Sundays will be provided with similar suits.

Information is especially requested on the following points: (1) Instances of birds or mammals killed by forest or grass fires, including destruction of birds' nests. (2) Instances of birds or mammals having left frequent feeding and breeding grounds as a result of fire. (3) Observations which show how soon birds and mammals return to lands from which they have been driven by fire. (4) Effect of repeated burnings upon bird and other animal life. It is assumed that repeated burnings, in addition to destroying absolutely many plants, as well as numerous insects and other invertebrates, impoverish sand, clay, and peat soils by the destruction of vegetable matter which should be a part of the soil and furnish the nitrogenous elements so necessary to growing plants. (5) Causes of fires damaging or injurious to wild life and steps that may be taken to prevent them.

Information obtained, it is hoped, will lead all wild-life devotees to more active fire prevention in this country.

We've been married 38 years. Give him a warning and let him go."

The two left the courtroom together.

Officers Neglect To Give Initials; Case Is Postponed

ORANGE, July 23.—With the July jury sworn and waiting for the evidence in the case of Henry Schaffert, local realtor, charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, in Justice G. W. Ingle's court here yesterday, the proceedings came to a sudden stop with the reading of the complaint by City Attorney L. F. Coburn.

For it was discovered that neither of the complainants, Officers Charles Wallace and E. E. Kirkwood, had appended their initials or their first names to their signatures.

"Is there only one Wallace in this town?" queried George Greer of Los Angeles, Schaffert's attorney. After a moment's conference it was decided that the omission of the initials was fatal to the case as far as yesterday's proceedings were concerned and it was continued until July 21.

The jury filed out with instructions from the court to avoid discussion of the case until that time when City Attorney Coburn will have filed an amended complaint.

NEW JAIL FOR LAGUNA BEACH WELCOMED

Cool "Cooler" Is Dragged Into Town In Three Cozy Compartments

LAGUNA BEACH, July 23.—Much curiosity was evidenced as the new "town jail" rolled down the main street on Monday and was parked on the Chamber of Commerce lot on First street.

From the appearance of the cage, one would judge that it had seen much service, the doors and bars were examined by many of the on-lookers and the same question was to be read in many faces—Who will be the first law-breaker to grace its cheerful self?

Laguna Beach has always been proud of the fact that it is different, and it can still boast as of old. It may contain a jail, as most other towns do, but what other town has had one moved down on wheels—a three compartment affair—similar to a Barnum and Bailey animal cage, and perched on multi-level foundations, as though it was ready to travel on to the next town? Shaded as it is by giant eucalyptus trees it promises to be a cool cooler, and that should be some consolation to offenders.

FIRES DEplete WILD LIFE IN U. S. FORESTS

Field workers of the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, and any others who are interested in the conservation of wild life, are asked to assist in the bureau in determining what damage has been done to bird and animal life through the burning of timberlands. Records of the forest service show that about 75,000,000 acres of timber-producing lands were burned over in the past seven years. It is conservative to say that each year in the United States, 10,000,000 acres of land clothed with sufficient inflammable material to carry fire are burned. This includes every type of land, from the tidewater marshes of the Gulf of Mexico to the timber-line areas of the Canadian border and Alaska. It is these lands which are the breeding and feeding places of many quail, grouse, turkeys, and other game birds, and small game and fur bearers. Ducks and geese are also affected by such fires, in the destruction of shelter, food, and nesting material.

Information is especially requested on the following points: (1) Instances of birds or mammals killed by forest or grass fires, including destruction of birds' nests. (2) Instances of birds or mammals having left frequent feeding and breeding grounds as a result of fire. (3) Observations which show how soon birds and mammals return to lands from which they have been driven by fire. (4) Effect of repeated burnings upon bird and other animal life. WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, July 22.—A large crowd was present at the banquette drawing in the West End market Saturday night, when prizes were awarded lucky holders of stubs. Mrs. J. A. Knapp walked off with the first prize, while the J. L. Edwards family won the five dollar grocery order. Eight prizes were awarded in all. H. A. Moore and M. P. Weer of Los Angeles officiated at the drawing, which was made by 5 year old Virginia Tumpkin. An interesting statement was that no less than $13,000 in cash had been paid banquette savers in Southern California since the first of the year.

Little five year old Lauren Jenkins decided to hide in the bread box Sunday during a game of hide and seek, which stands in front of the West End market. After searching vainly for him, his playmates decided he had gone home, and proceeded to enjoy themselves otherwise; Lauren called and kicked loudly, but it being Sunday the store was closed.

Lauren soon exhausted him until he was only able to kick. Some passing youngsters heard the knocks and immediately decided the box was haunted—excitement was high and speculation as to what the box contained was varied, until Lauren's brother, on a hot search for him, opened the box and revealed its contents. The catch on the outside of the box had slipped into place as he got in, making him a prisoner. Lauren, his clothes dripping wet from perspiration, and very red in the face, was taken home—almost exhausted.

Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Halliday, all of Long Beach, and Mrs. F. E. Thompson of Compton, Ed Thompson Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Thompson from here. PLAYERS CLUB TO DINE ON SEA SANDS

Several Interesting Features to Mark Gathering at Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, July 23.—The Laguna Beach Players are giving a Beach supper on Friday evening. The event is to be staged on the sand directly in front of the dance hall. The committee has assured the casual inquirer that the "eats" will be delicious (they always are at beach affairs) and that one may have all they can eat.

This is one of the regular Friday evening get-together parties and everyone is invited. The money raised will go toward the building fund of the Laguna Beach Community club. The clubhouse is in need of a coat of stucco before the winter weather sets in and it is the aim of these social gatherings to raise money enough to bring the building to completion.

Mr. J. J. Power, president of the Community club, urges everyone to co-operate in making this possible. Mrs. Alice Wakelee, chairman of the Players society, Mrs. Rankin and Mrs. Stephens, publicity committee of the Players society, comprise the committee for the Friday evening beach supper.

Mrs. Wakelee has announced that several interesting features will be introduced at the beach supper and that one may eat from six o'clock to eight for fifty cents.

Sky Rains Lizards At Cheyenne, But All Are Gone Now

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 21.—Residents of Cheyenne awoke to greet an unwelcome invasion. Following heavy rains, hordes of lizards had overrun many streets of the town.

Where they came from, no one knows. Some ordinarily substantial citizens have but one explanation. They claim the amphibians were rained down from the skies. The scornful laugh, but they have no solution to offer. The lizards romped just as freely on paved streets as they did on those of loose earth. Some specimens were fully eight inches long. By the next day most of the lizards had disappeared.

EVENING SALUTATIONS

FOR LARGER RESERVOIR

The Register was much interested, as were thousands of its readers, in the report made by City Water Superintendent Walter Wray to the Board of City Trustees at its meeting Monday night in which Mr. Wray urged the advisability of the erection of a large city reservoir.

It seems to us that there is not room for argument concerning the matter. Santa Ana's water system must be developed, and its water facilities and resources increased. There is no other way in which Santa Ana can keep up with its growing population and industrial life.

There are many desirable industries that use large quantities of water. Santa Ana should be in a position to supply them.

But Superintendent Wray pointed out the need of a large 50,000,000-gallon reservoir as a matter of insurance against water shortage that might result from the breaking of machinery. A big reservoir such as is proposed would give this city a supply that would last for ten or twelve days even though no water were added to the supply during the period.

The report of the superintendent should be, and doubtless will be given immediate attention by the city board. We have no doubt concerning the attitude of the voters of the city when bonds are offered; we believe the bonds would carry.

In teaching the children politics, you start with a set of building blocks.

ATHLETIC LEADERSHIP

America leads the world in athletics. The American Olympic team has won the track and field championship for the eighth time in succession.

It is getting to be monotonous. America always wins.

Why? Perhaps there are many answers. This country has a great population to choose from. Yet there are other countries more populous—Russia, China, India—that accomplish nothing in athletics.

More important is the fact that Americans have a keen and lively interest in physical exercise and sport, which tend to the development and discovery of good athletes. Still more important, perhaps, is the American spirit, which goes into every sort of human competition with a strong determination to win. American physique may be no better than that of many other nations. In fact, there is probably small difference in physique between the various civilized races. We may be safe in saying that victory in athletics, as in various other fields of human activity, comes to America so regularly because of an unusual combination of intelligence and will, helped of course by great numbers.

In this year's contest, perhaps numbers alone turned the trick for the United States. Little Finland won second place, with 166 points to America's 225, and all the rest far behind.

Finland, it may be observed, has the best educational record of all countries—the least illiteracy. Finland evidently has no less intelligence and strength of will than America. It has only a little over 3,000,000 people—about as many as this country had at the time of the American Revolution. Its remarkable showing makes Americans rather humble about their latest victory. Morally, Finland is the real victor.

"HOME MADE" WAY

It was a brave fight against modern industrialism that was made by Frank Way, alias "Home-Made Way," of Grand Rapids, Mich., who has just died.

Mr. Way, who was a mechanical genius, made everything by machinery, with a vast, interwoven system of quantity production that makes a million articles all exactly alike and a million men all equal human cogs in the economic machine. So he refused to use store goods. In his little shop he produced all his own manufactured goods. He made all his own clothing, including his hats and shoes. He bought food, but he made his own false teeth to eat it with.

Yet there is failure in Mr. Way's concession to food grown by others. He had to buy it because he could not raise it himself. Some of the food he needed grew in different climates and soils; and besides, he was so busy making shirts, hats, shoes, cooking utensils, etc., that he had little time for food production. It can't be done. This complex industrial age is no accident. It grows not only out of industrial invention and power but out of human nature and human needs. Society is interdependent, and the more society develops and increases its needs, the more so it becomes. All men together can produce more and better things for each of them than any man can produce by himself, for himself, and they can do it in less time. The personal touch is lost, but comfort and leisure are gained.

THE FRENCH DECLINE

France's birthrate continues low, and nobody seems to be able to do anything about it. The excess of births over deaths last year was less than 95,000, or only about one-fourth of one per cent of the population. And it would have been still less, but for an abnormally low death rate.

French leaders, therefore, are unusually concerned about the matter. But all their deliberations arrive nowhere. No statesman or scientist can explain just why the race fails to increase like its rivals, and there is no certainty that the knowledge would do any good if they did know.

The ultimate cause is hard to find. Economists and sociologists explain, but their explanations are not convincing. Why one race multiplies and another fails to multiply, why one waxes and another wanes, remains a mystery.

Perhaps Nature or Providence regulates such matters with a wisdom more than that of fallible human beings. Perhaps Nature or Providence has ordained that the French race, long a leader in Europe, accomplishing great things and bestowing many gifts upon mankind, has accomplished its purpose and from now on must yield primacy of numbers and influence to other races.

History suggests that races run their course, like individuals. When they have once entered upon a decline—of which ability to reproduce themselves is the most obvious test—they are nearly always doomed thenceforth to play minor roles, until in the fulness of time their stock is merged again with some fresh stock to make a new, vigorous race. Perhaps France has almost finished its course, having put forth its last big effort in the World War.

Third Party Fallacy

San Bernardino Sun

One of the first to point out the perils of a third party to the members of that third party was Samuel Gompers, veteran chief of American labor. He has never abandoned the belief that Labor's best interests are served by maintaining a balance of power between existing parties; by the policy of rewarding friends and punishing enemies. It is a position which the history of labor here and abroad during the last ten years has not weakened.

During the last ten years the definition of labor has undergone extraordinary dilution. Once upon a time a labor party was the party of the "class-conscious" wage-earning "proletariat." Russia broadened the definition enormously by including peasants with workers. Great Britain gave it a further push by taking detailed cognizance of the "brain-worker." It remained for the Cleveland meet to enlarge labor's frontiers so as to include everybody. The program of the Cleveland convention is broad enough to take in not only wage earners, farmers, salaried workers and professional workers, but also "independent bankers, manufacturers and merchants."

From the point of view of the national interest, there cannot be the slightest objection to a political party so generous in its sympathies. Only it is open to the opponents of the Cleveland convention to point out that there are already in existence two political parties made up of wage earners, farmers, white-collar men, professionals, bankers, manufacturers and merchants. One of these is the Republican party and the other is the Democratic party.

It has yet to be shown that the interests of the working masses move forward faster under the direction of a separate labor party than under labor in partnership with liberalism. At bottom, the progress of the workers is conditioned by forces more fundamental than politics and political organizations.

Up to South and West

Stockton Independent

It has been a commonplace observation in American politics that state and large city machines, especially in minority parties, are little interested in the presidency, but intensely and vitally interested in maintaining their hold in local affairs. Gavin McNab, chairman of the California delegation in the Democratic convention, just returned to San Francisco, found this particularly true in the case of New York state and Illinois, both dominated by large boss-ridden cities. The presidency to them was a mere abstraction. McNab's remedy for this condition is a combination of the West and South, where he assumes free men still have a national outlook. Even if sectional, the viewpoint extends beyond ward politics.

Here, according to McNab, is the evil and the remedy. The great lesson, to my mind, from this convention is that large delegations like those of New York, which was dominated by the city of New York, and Illinois, dominated by the city of Chicago, where the election of a Democratic President is more or less an abstract idea, are actually concerned with purely municipal matters. The maintenance of local patronage, with their, stands supreme. They are controlled and dominated in national convention by these local interests solely. The great issues of the nation and the great men of the nation are entirely secondary.

The South and the West will have to unite in future conventions so that the Democratic party may express the wishes of the people on the issues and men that affect the entire nation.

A Triumph of Progress

Sacramento Bee

A device has been tried out in England whereby sacks of mail are picked up by an airplane while in flight, somewhat on the principle long used by fast trains in this and other countries.

It is said that a similar device, if adopted in America, would cut the time of our air mail service from thirty-six hours to twenty-four hours for the coast-to-coast trip. And doubtless it will shortly be adopted.

The trite thing, of course, when facing such a probability, is to contrast twenty-four hour mail service between New York and San Francisco with the mail service fifty years ago, and exclaim: "The world do move!"

But isn't it more than trite? Isn't it really the true way of making our material progress visible to the eye? We must compare the air mail service with something. We can only appreciate its speed by contrasting it with something slower. Hence we select the pony express.

And do we ever stop to realize that in a comparatively few years there will be no one living in this country to whom the air mail service will seem at all remarkable—that when no one can remember when it did not exist, and the pony express is but a fact in the history books, it really will not be remarkable?

This is a practical illustration of relativity which is just as good as any in Einstein—and a great deal more understandable.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

AN IMPORTANT POINT—THE APPETITE. You have grown tired of everything in the way of food.

You can't understand it, because you have worked out a system whereby you get just the right number of calories every day for your particular body, and for the amount of work you do.

You eat so much of the different kinds of food proteins (meats and eggs), carbohydrates (bread and vegetables), and fats (milk and butter), with water and salts. And yet as I said above you get to the point where your food doesn't interest you.

What's the matter? Well, you've forgotten something that is absolutely essential to the enjoyment of food, and the proper digestion of it.

What is that? Your appetite.

Where you get the same food every day, amid the same surroundings, and particularly if you are not doing any real manual labor outdoors, then the daily routine doesn't stir up your imagination—your brain. And after all it is your imagination, the sight, the smell of food, the clean attractive dishes and table cloth, that stir up your brain that keen desire for food which we call appetite.

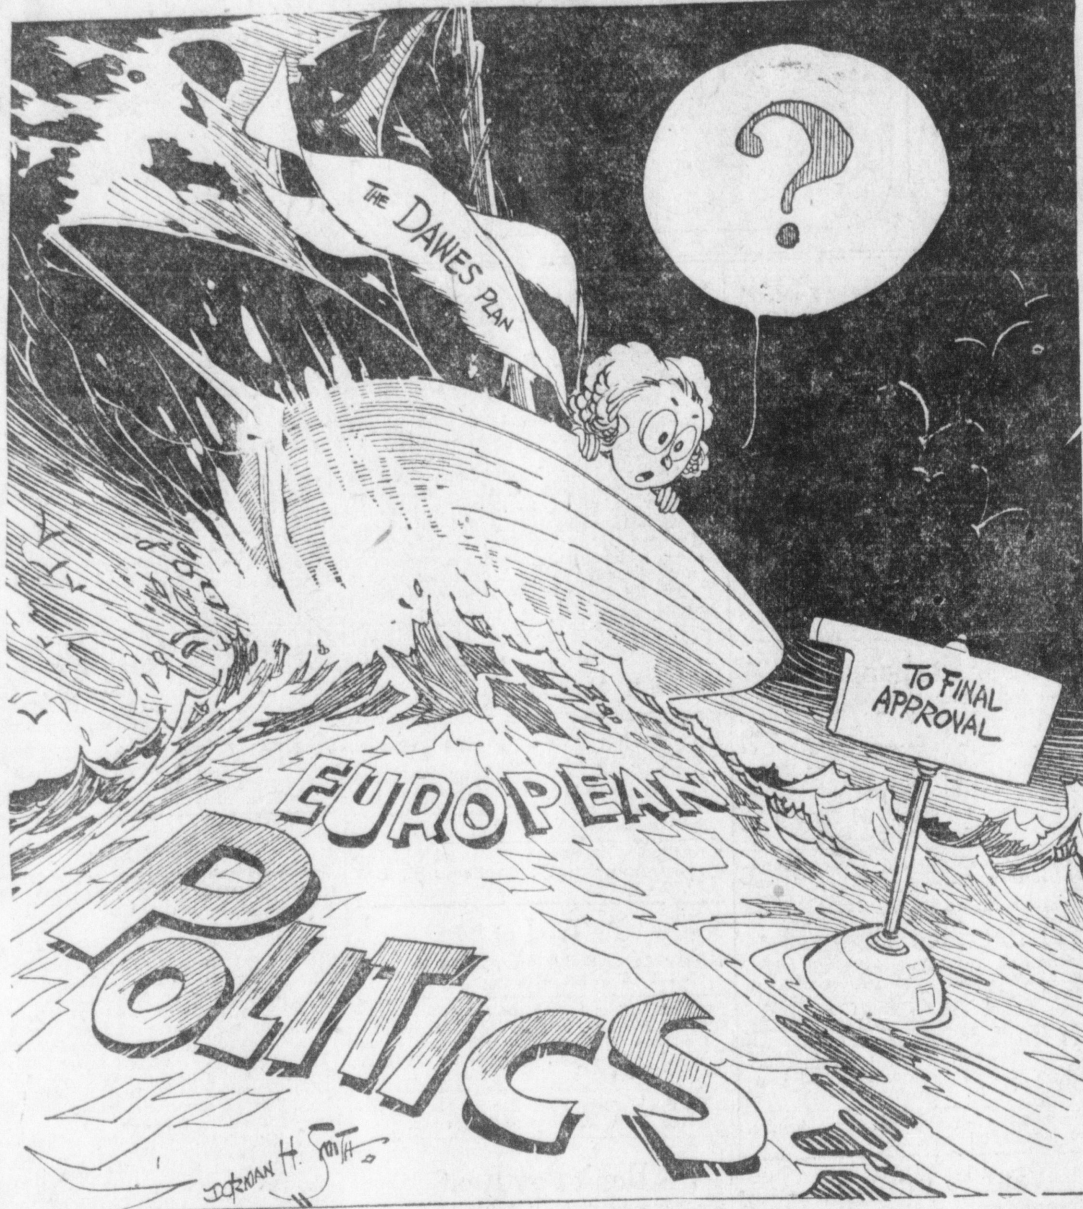

I have spoken before about the painstaking work of the dietitians in our hospitals, and have deplored the fact that in their efforts to secure the right number of calories, and the proper proportion of the different foods, and to prepare the meals in an economical manner, that they can have no time nor thought for the study of the individual appetite.

And on appetite depends the flow of the juices. You know how you enjoyed the fowl the first day of some special holiday season. The fowl came on the table for a couple of days after that first day. Perhaps you had a number of fowl and they had to be eaten up. Did you enjoy the last particle of the last fowl as much as the first day? You know you didn't, why?

Because the brain did not stir up the appetite to stimulate the mouth and stomach juices to the same extent. Why? Because you saw the food so often that your imagination was not stimulated. You had less appetite and less juices. So if you get a little tired of food—and your work doesn't beget an appetite, simply change your diet.

A Rough Journey

SONNET

Since there's no help, come, let us kiss and part—
Nay, I have done, you get no more of me,
And I am glad, yea, glad with all my heart;
That thus so clearly I myself can free;
Shake hands forever, cancel all our vows,
And, when we meet at any time again,
Be it not seen in either of our brows,
That we one jot of former love retain.
Now, at the last gasp of love's latest breath,
When, his pulse failing, Passion speechless lies,
When Faith is kneeling by his bed of death,
And innocence is closing up his eyes,
Now, if thou wouldst, when all have given him over,
From death to life thou mightst him yet recover.

—Michael Drayton.

The Favorable Balance

It develops that the United States has had a much larger "favorable balance of trade" the past year than the year before. In the fiscal year of 1922-1923 that balance, or excess of exports over imports, reached the comparatively low figure of $175,000,000, whereas during the war and immediately afterward it had amounted to billions a year. In the fiscal year of 1923-1924 it rose to $754,000,000, a gain of more than 300 per cent.

The United States sold more abroad, and bought less. Yet while importing much less goods, the country gained $406,000,000 more gold.

It is a gratifying situation, at least to exporters and to citizens whose economic thinking is along old-fashioned lines. But thoughtful Americans are becoming less sure than they used to be that such trade balances are really "favorable." As they keep on piling up, it means that the rest of the world owes us more and more money. The debtor nations try to pay in gold, and from present indications, we may soon have all the monetary gold there is.

What then? How can the rest of the world ever pay us what it owes already, in trade debts and war debts, unless the tide turns, and it sends us more goods than it buys from us, or else discovers new gold mines? That is the unanswerable question of present-day economics.

Worth While Verse

ALADDIN

When I was a beggarly boy,
And lived in a cellar damp,
I had not a friend or a toy,
But I had Aladdin's lamp;
When I could not sleep for cold,
I had fire enough in my brain,
And builded, with roofs of gold,
My beautiful castles in Spain!

Since then I have toiled day and night,
I have money and power good store,
But I'd give all my lambs of silver bright
For the one that is mine no more;
Take, Fortune, whatever you choose,
You gave, and may snatch again;
I have nothing 'twould pain me to lose,
For I own no more castles in Spain!

—James Russell Lowell.

Time to Smile

AT ARM'S LENGTH

He sauntered into the strange office with much self-assurance and an air of familiarity, threw down his business card and inquired: "Who's the main squeeze around here?" "Well," replied the good-looking stenographer, "they'd all take me for it if I'd let 'em."—American Legion Weekly.

Tom Sims Says

If you hear a great silence it is the children sitting around crying because school is out.
The second crop of straw hats will be ripe soon.

DOORS

Doors are good for leaving in air and people and bad for the same reason, depending on circumstances.

If each house was only allowed to have two doors most people would pick out the front door and the bath room door.

The most painful thing you can do with a door is shut it on your finger, the most aggravating thing is to hold it when somebody elts is trying to open it from the other side, the hardest thing is to peek through when the key is in it, the easiest thing is to forget to close it after you, and the most insulting thing is to slam it in somebody's face.

The most sarcastic thing to say when somebody forgets to shut the door is, "Hay, you was brawt up in a barn?" and when they say, "Why? you say, because you don't seem to know what doors was made for." The second time you say it they won't even half to ask why. Children hardly ever remember to close doors after them on account of them not caring whether they are open or closed. This proves a personal intrist is a grate influents.

Hardly anything you can do to a door makes your mother madder than getting jelly on the knob. The other reason why it is a bad thing to do is on account of the waist of jelly.

It is considered perfect politeness to knock on the door before you go into a room, but people would rather have you go in without knocking than knock before you go in and then hang the door shut after you get in.

KEEP IT "ON THE MAP"

Editor Register: Any mention, in any way, in the public press, of any place or thing, is evidence that that place or thing is of sufficient importance to mention.

Also it has a certain value to that place or thing by keeping it "on the map."

In today's Register appears a plea for a first class theater at a certain beach city, saying that many theater-goers motor to Long Beach, Los Angeles, Santa Ana and elsewhere to see a vaudeville show.

In the mention of Santa Ana it is significant that it is placed in the same classification with the two other principal cities of Southern California.

Moral—Keep it on the map. Get that?

Great Coffee Farm

Sao Paulo, Brazil, scene of a reported rebel uprising, is the source of the morning aroma from millions of steaming coffee cups all over the world, remarks a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Sao Paulo, the city, is the prosperous and beautiful capital of the richest of Brazil's 20 states. The city has half a million people. The state of Sao Paulo is larger than all New England and Pennsylvania combined. It comprises only one thirty-second part of Brazil's vast area but contains one-eighth of the country's population."

An Enormous Coffee Bill

"To the visitor it seems as if the state had two major products, coffee and statistics! Its aggregate acreage of coffee trees exceeds the combined areas of Delaware and Rhode Island. There are more than seven coffee trees in the state for every man, woman and child in the United States. At 30 cents a pound the world pays Sao Paulo about three hundred and forty million dollars annually for her one billion, one hundred and thirty-five million pounds of coffee produced. As a specialized wholesale grocery, her coffee business is only to be compared with Cuba's sugar crop."

Geography, religion and romance are strangely blended in Sao Paulo's coffee. Solomon, for all his wisdom, overlooked a potential source of great wealth, for coffee is generally believed to have originated in Abyssinia where Solomon's descendants reign to this day. It was not introduced into Brazil until 1723.

A Portuguese sailor was the Captain John Smith of Sao Paulo. He married the South American Pocahontas, daughter of the chieftain Tibirica. That was about 1500. Then came Jesuit missionaries, who are accredited founders of the state, and when they celebrated their first mass on the anniversary of the conversion of St. Paul they named the country for that apostle.

Corn and Potato Move North "Curiously enough, coffee rules in Brazil, while two indigenous South American crops, corn and the 'Irish' potato, are mainstays in North America."

"Sao Paulo, the city, is purposefully modern, so much so that some of the social and engineering projects were put into effect there while they were still 'paper programs' in North America."

"For years now when a new schoolhouse is built in Sao Paulo, the school physicians have passed upon the lighting, the kinds of seats to be used, and other hygienic details. Indeed, they must even approve the type and its spacing in text books before they are adopted."

"An unusual sight of the city is the snake farm. The snake houses, looking like beehives, cover a large tract. The snakes are the sources of serum used to treat sufferers from the bites of rattlesnakes, the deadly jaracans and other venomous reptiles.

Famous 'Coffee Railroad'

"The railroad from Sao Paulo to Santos, the world's foremost coffee port, is famous among engineers the world over. Here is a drop of 2,600 feet in seven miles over one section. Steel cables, stationary engines and especially equipped locomotives are required for the 35-mile run between the two cities. There are 13 tunnels but the trains emerge from each to disclose some surprising new panorama of wooded mountain, valley of banana or coffee trees, torrential stream or gorge of dizzy depth."

"The road is said to be one of the best paying in the world. Since the dividends are limited by law its earnings have gone into sumptuous stations, fine rolling stock and perfected equipment until one visitor remarked that all remaining to be done was the gilding of the tops of the telegraph poles."

"The steep railroad climb from Santos to Sao Paulo gives a hint to the peculiar geography of the state. For nearly 400 miles along its coast is a now belt, narrow in the north and widening to about 80 miles in the south. Here the weather is hot and moist and the crops are bananas, coconuts, vanilla beans and cacao. This lowland is marked by a line of hills back of which is an undulating plateau, cooler and dryer, where the coffee finds ideal growing conditions."

"Sao Paulo is notable for its varied architecture, ranging from chalet types, Moorish palaces and buildings of the French renaissance period to modern office structures. Its outlying streets are as plentifully planted with trees and as well interspersed with flower planted parks as Washington, D. C."

"The port of Santos is given over principally to shipping but lacks the squalor of many older ports. It has a beautiful beach, where the sand is packed so hard that automobiles may drive to the water's edge."

"The city has a remarkable theater, with a telescopic roof. By means of an electric mechanism this room may be removed in 10 minutes and the building converted into an open air auditorium. The orchestra chairs are removable so that shortly after the curtain falls a ballroom is available for dancing."

NO. 13—THE STORY OF A BRASS RING

The merry-go-round in Happy

Go Lucky Park was a jolly one. Nick made the music go, and a whistle went "toot-toot," and Mister Zip, the fairyman, turned a handle that started the merry-go-round.

Nancy took tickets sometimes, and sometimes she held the babies so they couldn't fall off and get hurt. And, although the animals on the merry-go-round looked as fierce as they could be, they were only made of wood and couldn't hurt you any more than a fly.

Besides, there was the brass ring. If you got the brass ring when you were whizzing past, instead of a black one, that gave you a free ride.

Of course, everybody tried as hard as ever they could to get the brass ring, you may be sure.

One day Cutie Cottontail got a job wedging a garden and, although they say that it wasn't all through he pulled up, still he earned enough money to go to Happy Go Lucky Park and spend it and the afternoon.

He ate his lunch in a hurry and put on his best striped shirt and away he hopped.

He bought a pack of chewing gum (really, I never knew before what it was that made bunnies wiggle their noses so), and went into the fun house and saw himself in all the fat and lean and lumpy mirrors, and got lost in the Puzzle Patch on purpose to see how quickly he could find his way like that.

But all the time he was making his way to the merry-go-round, where Nancy and Nick were working. He liked the Twins and was in luck him and when he was a passenger Nick always let it go around a couple of times longer so he would get an extra long ride.

"I'm gonna stay till I get the brass ring," said Cutie, as he drew near and heard the ting-a-ling-a-ling, dum-de-dum-de-dum of the music. "And when I get it I'm gonna keep it to show to my friends. Hello, Nick!"

"Hello, Cutie," called Nick. "Hop on. You're just in time."

The little rabbit boy got on the merry-go-round and climbed up on a fierce-looking dragon with a curly tail.

"Hooraay!" he shouted as the whistle went "toot-toot" and Mister Zip, the fairyman, turned the thingamajigger that started the merry-go-round on its circular journey.

What's that? What did you say? Who was it that went "hooraay," Cutie or the dragon. My goodness, it was Cutie, of course, for the fierce dragon was only made of wood, and even if he hadn't been, he'd have been lashing his tail and gnashing his teeth and breathing fire through his nose, and wondering how a nice tender rabbit would taste for his dinner.

"Oh, I see! You think that's why he was saying 'hooraay.' Just because Cutie climbed on his back!"

Well, maybe he would, but as I said before, how could he when he wasn't alive?

Round and round and round went the merry-go-round, and every time Cutie passed the big wooden thing with a ring in the end, he held out his hand and got one. He got so many iron rings that both his ears were full. For every time he got a ring he slid it over an ear.

And then didn't he get the brass one! "Hooraay!" he shouted, louder than ever. "I'll slip this one in my pocket and take it home." Cutie was going to get into a peck of trouble.
